Theme of Democracy in Crisis Sounds at Washington Fetes; Ex-Atlantan Is Sought in Shooting of Pro-British Employer

Hunted Servant Is Pro-German, Officers Claim

'Shooting Deliberate— There Was No Scrap,' Victim Declares.

A former Atlantan, Walter Groebli, last night was being sought in the wounding of Percy W. Whittlesey, a strong advocate of aid to Britain, at his home in fashionable South Nyack, N. Y.

Whittlesey was in serious condition and a police search for Groebli was centered in wooded country near the Nyack home.

Police claimed Groebli was a Nazi sympathizer who only Saturday had bought a record of the Nazi war song "We Sail Against England" to arouse the ire of his employer. Whittlesey is a founder of the "Council for America." Groebli's diary revealed he purchased the record Saturday in a shop in the Yorkville section of New York, center of the city's German population and a hotbed of Nazi propaganda. The diary also contained a number of profane references to Whittlesey and other men known for their pro-British feelings.

Condition 'Fair.'

The wounded man was in "fair" condition at Nyack hospital, where he was taken by a neighbor who found him staggering along a path about 100 yards from his home. Blood was pouring from six bullet wounds.

Whittlesey told police "the shooting was deliberate—there was no scrap."

Whittlesey told police that Groebli, who had been his houseboy for four months, came to his room shortly before noon today, knocked loudly and shouted "It was time I had my coffee."

"Then he ran downstairs and yelled to me 'Come down and see what is the matter with the furnace.' He fired on me as I entered the furnace room. I chased him upstairs, and he fired on me again from the head of the stairs, this time right in my face."

One bullet pierced Whittlesey's chest and lung and passed out his back. Other bullets struck him in the neck, teeth, shoulder and wrist. Three other bullets were buried in the oak beams of the two-story living room.

Bank Director.

Whittlesey is a director of the State Bank of Pearl River and is director of the Wilcox-Crittenden Company of Middletown, Conn.

The wounded man told police that yesterday the houseboy brought out "We Sail Against England" and played it to irritate him. The record still was on the phonograph when police arrived.

An entry in Groebli's diary a

Roosevelt, Willkie Discuss World Crisis

By the United Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Victor and vanquished of the 1940 political wars—President Roosevelt and Wendell L. Willkie—discussed the world crisis at the White House today and the Republican candidate left bearing a personal note of cheer from the Chief Executive to Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Great Britain.

Willkie departs by Clipper on Wednesday to make a personal survey of war conditions in Britain. He was accompanied to the White House by Secretary of State Cordell Hull with whom he had spent nearly two hours reviewing the international picture and examining the various phases of the pending lend-lease bill.

It was the first meeting between the President and Willkie in nearly four years. During the bitterly fought presidential campaign, Mr. Roosevelt never referred to Willkie by name.

The two met today with a common conviction that the best defense of this nation in a world aflame lies in providing all-out aid to Britain—a conviction which threatens to weaken Willkie's hold on the Republican party organization.

Accompanied by Hull, Willkie entered the President's office and quickly assured Mr. Roosevelt that he knew he was busy on his inaugural address and would not detain him long.

"I am glad to see you," the President said, extending a hand in greeting.

Both smiled as they shook hands.

Soon after the meeting began, the President laid aside

Hitler and Duce Confer; Phone Service Is Cut

Nazis Silent on Parley; Rome-Berlin Out of Communication.

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—(P)—Strong rumors, not officially denied, circulated in Berlin today that Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini had a conference during the day.

A government spokesman told inquirers "nothing is known" and well-informed sources who asserted definitely that the meeting had been held could not say where they had met or what they had discussed.

Authorized sources said telephone communication between Rome and Berlin would be cut for the next two days but refused to give a reason. Several press services were refused telephone connections.

Nevertheless, calls put in late tonight went through to Rome without a hitch. Government spokesmen said it must have been a slip.

One expert source, when asked about the reported meeting, simply answered, "Can't you wait until morning?"

He gave no definite hint, however, that anything would be given out on where, whether or when the Axis leaders had met and foreign reporters faced expulsion or other punishment for espionage even if they attempted to point out where the Fuehrer or Duce might be. That has been the standing caution these many weeks.

Some Axis sources floated the story that they had put the finishing touches on a new surprise attack—perhaps against Gibraltar, perhaps in the Balkans, perhaps against Britain herself.

British sources launched the report that Hitler had found Mussolini weakening in his confidence of an ultimate Axis victory and that they had reviewed dozens of plans without being satisfied with any.

Laval, Petain Make Up After Bitter Quarrel

Vichy's Announcement Opens Way for Return to Cabinet.

VICHY, France, Jan. 19.—(P)—Pierre Laval began a comeback in the Vichy government today as Chief of State Marshal Petain announced he had talked with his former foreign minister and vice premier and that their "misunderstandings" have been "dissipated."

The announcement opened the way for Laval's return to the government and indicated that French-German negotiations, which stalled when he broke with Petain last December 13, would be resumed.

For that reason particularly, observers regarded the meeting yesterday as of prime importance. It is believed now that the principal German objection to continuing collaboration discussions—Laval's "Black Friday" resignation—soon will be removed.

The reconciliation took place aboard Petain's private train in the village of La Ferte, near the line separating occupied and unoccupied France.

Without 'Johnny Reb' Guides, Yankee Troops Vanish in Night

SOMEWHERE IN GEORGIA (OR NORTH OR SOUTH CAROLINA), Jan. 20.—(Monday)—A "lost battalion" of the second Yankee invasion of the south early this morning was being sought by the state patrols of three states, by city and by county police of uncounted cities and counties and by a slightly discomfited captain.

The battalion is unaccounted for since it left Lexington, N. C., yesterday morning in the general direction of Atlanta, Ga., focal point of another Yankee commander's southward march. Where Sherman had a Confederate army to lead him on, these boys of the 101st Signal Battalion, New York National Guard, were equipped with road maps and other modern conveniences obligingly supplied by the rebel descendants of General Joe Johnston's army.

Dixie Delegates Rise Early To View the City

Lobbies Hum as Georgians Mix, Talk of Historic Occasion.

By LUKE GREENE,
Constitution Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The national capital opened its arms today to members of Georgia's inaugural delegation as they arrived from the sunny southland to find this wintry city cloaked in a patriotic dress for tomorrow's inauguration when President Roosevelt will take the oath of office for a third term.

Two special trains bearing the Georgia party steamed into Washington at 7 o'clock this morning, and the representatives from the deep south grabbed for overcoats and mufflers as protection against the icy winds that seemed to be blowing in from regions around the North Pole.

Although many delegates remained in the trains to catch up on the sleep they did not get last night, others were up bright and early and established headquarters in downtown hotels. Lobbies hummed with activity as the Georgians mixed and mingled and talked of the part they will play in tomorrow's epochal inauguration.

Tour Grounds.

James S. Peters, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee; Randall Evans Jr., speaker of the Georgia house of representatives, and their wives were among a group who toured the capitol grounds this morning and saw the platform where President Roosevelt will stand tomorrow to be sworn in for his third term.

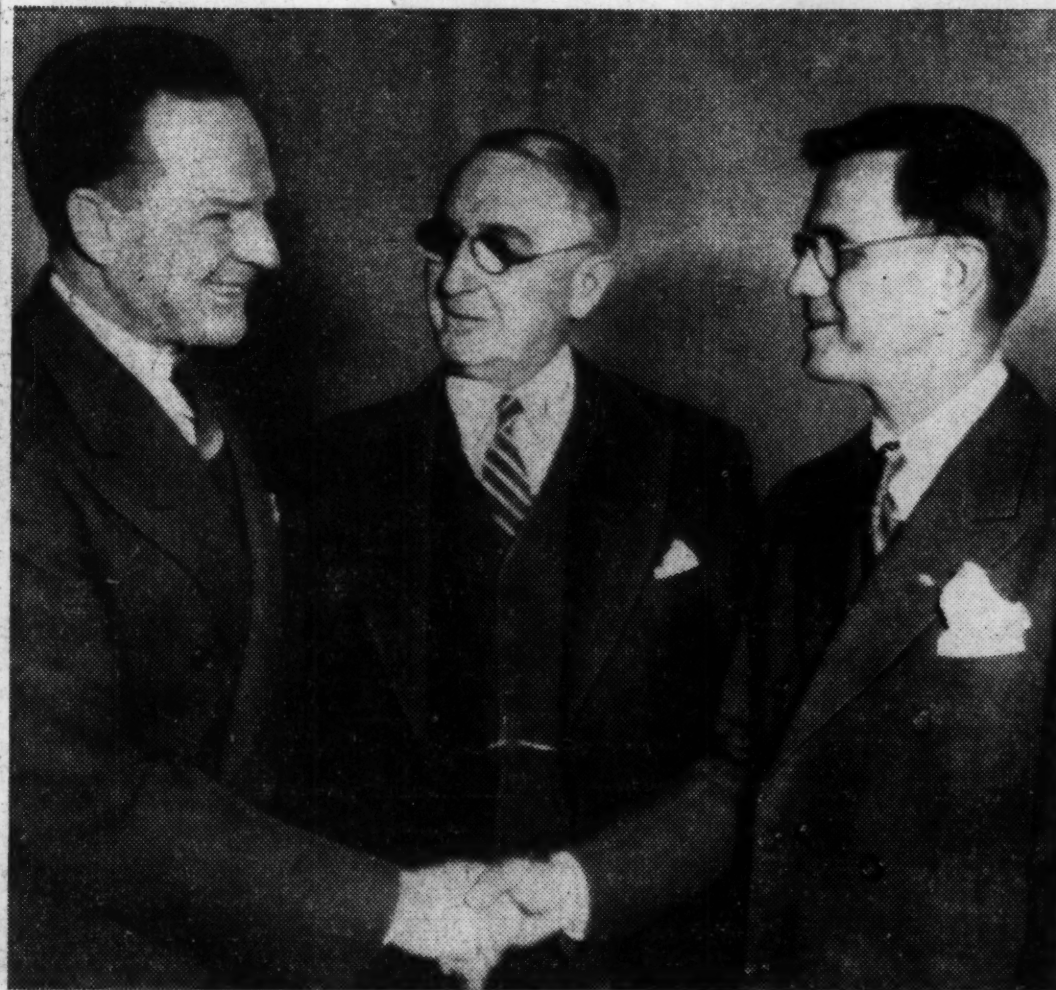

The city is draped in flags, with hawkers selling badges bearing the picture of President Roosevelt and other souvenirs from the sidewalks.

Chairman Peters was wearing a black derby, which gave him an air of distinction as he strode over the grounds that tomorrow will be packed with dignitaries from all over the country.

He confided he wore it only on special political occasions, and that he expected it to be a more cherished possession after the inauguration. The Manchester banker said he had worn it during his four terms as a member of the general assembly.

"I guess the hat would mark me as a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde,"

OFFICIAL GREETING—Representative Hugh Peterson, left, member of the Georgia congressional delegation, welcomes Governor Talmadge to Washington for the inauguration of President Roosevelt today while Senator Russell looks on. At a luncheon given in the capital yesterday by the state's senators and congressmen for the Governor, Talmadge said, "Georgia has the best senators in the United States."

R. L. Cooney Is Dead at 76; Funeral Today

Veteran Insurance Executive Had Lived Here 55 Years.

Robert Lee Cooney, veteran Atlanta insurance executive and an employee of the New York Life Insurance Company for 61 years, died yesterday morning at his residence, 1810 Ponce de Leon avenue. He was 76 years old, and had been a resident of Atlanta for 55 years.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill with Dr. Robert W. Burns and Dr. Stuart Oglesby officiating.

A native of Seaford, Del., he was taken to New Orleans as an infant and spent his early life there.

He became connected with the New York Life Insurance Company at the age of 14 as an office boy, later rising to the place of cashier of the New Orleans office.

At the age of 21, he moved to Atlanta as director of the firm's agency here. He was later named inspector of agencies and, finally, inspector of agencies-at-large for the organization.

On January 8 he celebrated his sixty-first anniversary with the firm, but for the past two months had been virtually inactive.

Mr. Cooney was a member of the Nine O'Clocks, the Piedmont Driving Club, the Capital City Club, and was a Shriner.

Surviving are his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Gordon Boswell, of New Orleans; three sisters, Mrs. Emory Cooney Lively, of New Orleans; Mrs. I. Cochran, of San Antonio, and Mrs. Francis K. Von Ficht, of Chicago; and a brother, John M. Cooney, of Griffin.

Pallbearers will be Judge Shepard Bryan, Grover Middlebrooks, Sam M. Carson, Roy S. Miner, John Ashley Jones, Dr. W. T. Bivins Sr., F. W. Blalock, Colonel B. L. Bugg, Dr. B. H. Boyd, James R. Gray, Romney L. Campbell, of New York, and Roland B. Burch, of Indianapolis. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

Talmadge Says Russell, George The Two Best Senators in U. S.

'We Have Great National Delegation,' He Declares, 'and I Appreciate Their Co-operation Because I Know What It Means To Have It.'

By LUKE GREENE,
Constitution Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 19.—Georgia's congressional delegation entertained Governor Talmadge and his party at a luncheon today in the Raleigh hotel, where they heard themselves roundly praised by the state's chief executive, who declared that "Georgia has the two best senators in the United States."

Governor Talmadge, who ran against both Senators George and Russell and is thought to have senatorial aspirations again, asserted he knew they were good senators because "I tried to beat one of them myself and me and the President tried to beat the other."

"We have a great national delegation," he said, "and I appreciate their co-operation because I know what it means to have it." Governor Talmadge spoke only a few words but declared he was delighted that so many Georgians had the opportunity to come to Washington and witness what he described as an "historic occasion"—the inauguration of President Roosevelt for a third term.

He made no reference to his plans for working with the national administration but has said on many occasions he intended to co-operate with the national leaders when the interest of his state and nation were involved.

Senator George, who preceded Governor Talmadge, referred to the great problems looming today on the national horizon but expressed confidence the people of the United States would be able to meet them.

"People who have a never-say-die spirit will be able to meet whatever the future holds," he declared.

The senior senator pledged to Governor Talmadge the co-operation of the Georgia members of congress and invited him to "call on us any time for anything that affects you and your administration." He declared the "seed of resurrection" was in the hearts

Gay Reunion Held by Family At White House

President Takes Things Easy, Relaxing, Revising Address.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The foreboding theme of democracy in crisis sounded an off-key undertone tonight for an otherwise gay inauguration eve and for merrymaking thousands here to see Franklin D. Roosevelt do something new again—repeat the Presidential oath of office for the third time.

It was the keynote of speeches at a banquet given by the Electoral College. It was implicit in a dinner in honor of the governors of the states, given by William S. Knudsen, who has charge of producing war machines for democracy's defense. It was present in the prayers and sermons heard in Washington churches.

Even at a "gala" in Constitution Hall the principal purpose of which was fun for the crowds, it asserted itself in the person of the funny-man of the movies, Charlie Chaplin, billed to do his famous speech from his film "The Great Dictator."

Will Dominate Speech. And it unquestionably will dominate Mr. Roosevelt's short—not more than 12 minutes, the White House said—inaugural address of tomorrow.

Nevertheless, the exuberance of the hotel lobby crowds and the mobs of sightseers was hardly dampened. They had come to Washington, some to acclaim a great man of their party, others merely to watch a great and, this time, historically unprecedented spectacle, but all, apparently to have a good time.

Along Pennsylvania avenue, under the fluttering flags, merchants had boarded up their show windows to protect them from the parade crowds. So great has been the crush in some past years that the pressure of those in front jammed the shoulders of the less fortunate through the plateglass.

Sidewalk barkers were doing a big business in souvenirs—brass medallions, flags, lapel buttons, the usual trivia of a crowd-attracting event. One offered "genuine copies of a personally autographed picture" of the President.

"You address 'em, we mail 'em," he droned. "Send one to Hitler."

Accepts Suggestion. Some, he said, had accepted the suggestion.

At the White House there was a gay family reunion. Practically the whole Roosevelt clan was there, including son James who arrived unexpectedly—he had advised his father he would be unable to come.

Mr. Roosevelt, himself, took

ASCAP Lifts Radio Ban for Inauguration

'Free License', Granted for All Music at Ceremonies.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(P)—A "free license" granted by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers will enable the three major networks to broadcast all music to be played during President Roosevelt's inaugural ceremonies tomorrow.

Spokesmen for the National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia and Mutual Broadcasting Systems said today that since ASCAP had lifted the restriction on its songs for the inaugural ceremonies, the entire music program would be heard over their stations, regardless of whether the tunes were ASCAP-controlled.

ASCAP music has been eliminated from the three networks because of a dispute over rates. Gene Buck, ASCAP president, announced 10 days ago that inaugural officials had been notified ASCAP songs would be available to radio without restriction for the inaugural.

Lively Note.

Charles D. Redwine, president of the state senate, came striding into the hotel this morning wearing a new outfit, and he injected a lively note into the gathering as he told one story after another.

Dr. Grady Coker, state senator from Canton, and Representative Fred Wilbanks, of Cherokee county, were making a brave effort to concoct a plan for making a quick trip to New York.

Several other legislators are in the Georgia party. Among them are Fred Hand, speaker pro tem. of the house of representatives; Senator Pat Campbell; Representative Tom Callaway, of Covington; Fred John Maverty, Marvin Moore, Roy Ottwell, Cleveland Reese, Dr. Gordon Summer, Frank McNall, Jim Hogg and Mel Turner, of De Kalb.

Many of the Georgia delegates brought along their wives, who are all agog in anticipation of the inauguration.

Adjutant General Hawkins is kept busy making appointments and seeing that the Governor is properly cared for.

Members of the Governor's staff were decked out in their military uniforms and were the envy of the more conservatively dressed gentlemen.

Gay Party.

It was a gay party which boarded the two special trains in Atlanta, and it remained a gay party until well past midnight.

Probably the most lively car in the Governor's special was that of the Fulton county Democrats. It was hooked on just behind the engine. Whether there was any significance in its location was not revealed. But, nevertheless, it remained "steamed up" until the wee hours of morning.

Herbert Hayes, president of the Young Democrats, seemed to be the official host and high muckety-muck in the car, but he was ably assisted by Elmore Thrash and Wiley Moore Jr.

President Hayes was occupied most of the time in saying "hello" to the countless visitors who beat a path to the Young Democratic car, but in between he described in enthusiastic terms his plans for the organization. He wants it to be something more than just another civic or political club. He hopes to have a representative from every militia district in Fulton county, and he is going to put them to work.

Other Young Democrats glimpsed flitting here and there were Carl Levy, vice president; Ruth Murray, secretary, and Vernon Kyle.

Youth Shows How Old World Hates Can Vanish in U. S.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(P)—A 23-year-old American youth of Italian descent joined in a solemn ceremony of the Greek Orthodox church today to demonstrate, he said, that old world hates could be forgotten in America.

With four young Greek parishioners, Angelo Ippolito, of Jersey City, N. J., plunged into the icy waters of New York's upper bay to help recover a cross of gold tossed into the water by a bishop in a 1,600-year-old service commemorating the baptism of Christ in the River Jordan.

Ippolito had joined the four Greek youths as they prepared to follow the cross in a ceremonial procession from St. Nicholas church in lower Manhattan to Battery pier.

The five young men kissed the cross as they climbed from the harbor, whipped by a below-freezing wind, and received an archbishop's blessing.

Medical Research Cuts Life Insurance Costs, but...

'HINDSIGHT AND FORESIGHT' a weekly column by Holgar J. Johnson President Institute of Life Insurance

If length of life were the only element in insurance costs, the premiums you pay would reflect directly the results of medical research. But there are other elements.

Last year the deaths from influenza and pneumonia registered a striking drop—a record that can be credited directly to the more widespread use of the new miracle drugs: Sulfa-pyridine and Sulfa-thiazol. Pneumonia showed an improvement of 17% over the preceding year, which in turn had showed almost as large a one over 1938. The improvement in influenza—30%—is even more sensational. But the proof here is not so conclusive, in that the occurrence and severity of "flu" are subject to larger fluctuations from year to year.

The other day I happened to be discussing this with a very practical-minded policy owner. In the course of our conversation he suggested: "I suppose now that medical science is saving these lives, the cost of insurance will go down."

It is quite true that the cost of insurance to the policy owner is influenced by improvement in the death rate as experienced by the company.

Another vital factor in cost, and one subject to wide changes, is the average interest rate that the companies earn on their reserve funds. If we could wipe out influenza and pneumonia altogether, our yearly savings would be only a fraction of the increased cost of life insurance due to the reduction in the interest rate since 1930.

There are some elements in the cost of life insurance that the companies can control. For example, they are constantly at work to reduce their expenses wherever they can without the sacrifice of necessary services to policyholders.

Personally, I think that policy owners ought to know the importance not only of medical research, but also of the rate of interest as factors in life insurance costs.

How to Get It and How to Keep It

If the reading of this article teaches you only this one lesson about your own body it may be worth more than millions of dollars to you; for of what use is money without health, or after you are dead?

The lesson is this:—Keep your system pure and you may have health and strength to gain and enjoy happiness, success and length of years. But you may ask:—

How Can I Keep My System Pure?

That is not a hard question to answer, for Science plainly teaches you that your liver, which is larger than all of the other glands of the body combined, has the special work of purifying your blood and thereby your entire system and of keeping it pure.

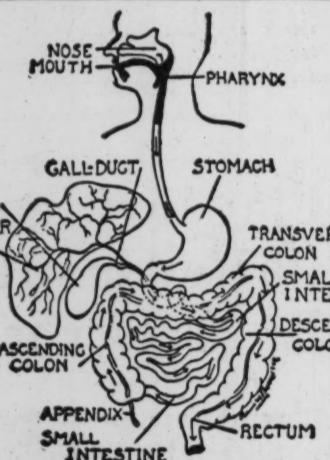

How Does the Liver Purify?

Physicians tell us that the liver destroys, or renders harmless, poisons such as uric acid and other toxic waste matter that is normally formed in the tissues, and also prevents the formation of poisons in the blood by means of a greenish-yellow, bitter fluid called bile, which, between meals, is stored up in the gall-bladder, but after each meal is poured out into the intestines. The bile is purgative and indirectly antiseptic or prophylactic. In health it is your bile that makes your bowels act regularly and freely every day. It is Nature's Purgative. It is your bile that keeps your bowels pure, clean and free from excessive fermentation (gas) and putrefaction. Remember that putrefactive germs do not thrive where there is fresh bile and there can therefore be no fermentation to cause gas, nor putrefaction to produce poisons, or toxins. Also, as bile is Nature's purgative, there can be no constipation if the bile is flowing naturally and freely from the gall-bladder into the bowels after each meal.

But when the bile becomes stagnant your bowels stop acting regularly and the contents become a breeding bed for the germs of fermentation (gas) and putrefaction. These poisons, (called toxins), are gradually absorbed into your blood and if the quantity be more than the liver can destroy, may circulate all over your body, poisoning, irritating or inflaming your brain and nerves, your muscles and your heart, skin, kidneys, and every vital organ of your body. Your doctor calls this "intestinal toxemia," and tells you that your system is "toxic," or, if mild, "bilious."

Nature's Danger Signals

When the bile becomes stagnant in your gall-bladder and is dammed back into your liver instead of flowing freely into your bowels, you, sooner or later, begin to feel some of the following symptoms:—Your breath may become unpleasant (halitosis), your tongue coated, a bad taste in your mouth, your coffee (and tobacco) lose their natural flavor, your food does not agree with you; you may have heart burn, gas, or fluttering around the heart, dizziness

Study the above drawing for a few minutes. Notice particularly how the bile flows from the liver into and out of the gall-bladder and thence into the small intestine which it enters at a point just below the stomach. A cut-off valve prevents the return of the bile from the intestine into the gall-bladder. The gall-bladder is the pump for the bile, acting like the bulb of an atomizer.

or blind spell; you may be troubled with belching or frequent passages of gas from the bowels; the gas "balloons" your bowels and presses so hard on the kidneys that it gives you pain in the small of your back over your kidneys, making you think you have kidney trouble; at night the gas in your bowels presses upon your bladder making you get up frequently, thus breaking into your sleep. In the morning you are tired instead of refreshed. Gradually your health is injured. Your complexion becomes sallow or bilious; dark rings may appear under your eyes, you may feel lazy, dull and irritable or blue and melancholic. You may have frequent colds (catarrh) or dull headache; your bowels stop their free, full and natural action; you have constipation, gas, putrefaction and self-poisoning or "intestinal toxemia," as the doctors call it. This group of symptoms is referred to, in the South, as "Torpid Liver," but apparently a better expression might be "Torpid Bile Flow."

NOTE:—If the above symptoms are mild, they are called bilious; if severe, "toxic." Some may be of nervous reflex origin.

How to Make the Bile Flow

But when the bile stops flowing freely, how can we help Nature start it again? The answer is: Take Calotabs at bedtime and drink water freely the next day. This formula is designed to increase the force and frequency of contraction of the gall-bladder, and the upper intestine (duodenum), thus promoting the expulsion of bile from the gall-bladder and bile ducts into the small intestine and thence through and out of the bowels. When you take Calotabs you know that you have taken what the doctors call a cholagogue or bile expelling medicine. It cleans you out thoroughly. Every inch of your twenty-five foot canal, including your stomach, small intestine and large intestine or colon is thoroughly cleared and washed clean and pure, and you can see and feel the bile in the stools. (Bile causes a slight burning sensation and a bright yellow or greenish yellow color.) Next morning your system feels purified and refreshed and you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish and go about your work, or pleasure.

NOTE:—If the stagnation of bile is caused by the pressure of a gallstone, only a surgical operation can remove the cause. But the common cause of stagnation of bile is the accumulation of catarrhal mucus in the gall-bladder and its ducts. This mucus is usually the result of over-indulgence in highly seasoned foods, or stimulating drinks. Calotabs help to relieve this engorgement.

Formula and Action of Calotabs

The formula of Calotabs is designed to make calomel-taking a pleasure, to obviate the necessity of following it with a dose of Epsom Salts, and thus make it just as pleasant and safe as any other purgative. Calotabs are composed of a thoroughly purified and refined calomel combined with assistants and correctives. The calomel acts as a "cholagogue" or bile expeller; is diuretic to the kidneys; and antiseptic (prophylactic) to the bowels, discouraging the growth of putrefactive bacteria and gas formation. The assistants act like salts, washing the calomel out of the system, preventing its accumulation and any danger of salivation. The correctives settle the stomach and bowels, preventing nausea, sickening and griping effects. Calotabs (and water) therefore, give you the combined effects of calomel and salts without the nausea, sickening and griping effects.

When You Need Calotabs

Unwholesome foods and drinks, or over-indulgence in good foods and beverages, especially meats, alcohol, coffee, tea and tobacco, cause engorgement of the liver with stagnation of bile, and intestinal toxemia. Colds with their toxins, bring about a similar toxic condition. Hot summer weather, overwork, mental strain, irregular habits, and lack of sleep tend to make the system toxic. Whenever you need a thorough cleansing of the food canal, as in colds, constipation, bilious indigestion, sick headache, engorgement of the liver and its allied organs, the stomach and kidneys, you will find Calotabs a most dependable and effective eliminant. Millions of Calotabs have been used annually for twenty years. You need have no fear of using them as directed. Calotabs are quite economical—only 25 cents for the family package; 10 cents for the trial package, at your druggist's. (Advertisement.)

things easy. As was the case yesterday, he alternated periods of relaxation with periods of revising his inaugural address.

Outside the executive mansion, on Pennsylvania avenue, an inter-denominational church service was held in the "Court of Freedom"—an elaborate stand from which Mr. Roosevelt will review the inaugural parade. Washington clergymen—the Rev. John Keating, Roman Catholic; the Rev. Seth R. Brooks, Universalist; Rabbi Norman Gerstenfeld; and the Rev. Rev. Albert J. McCartney, Presbyterian—participated.

Bustling Activity.

For Mrs. Roosevelt, after her arrival at mid-morning from New York, it was a day of bustling activity. Involving several changes of clothes. There was a reception to be attended at the home of Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador and chairman of the inaugural committee, for visiting governors; another given by Oscar R. Ewing, assistant chairman of the Democratic national committee, for Edward J. Flynn, the chairman, and another at the Women's National Democratic Club. After that and a change of clothing, her program included the dinner of the electoral college and the Constitution hall gala.

For the latter an imposing array of talent had been assembled. In addition to Chaplin, there was Irving Berlin to lead the singing of his own song, "God Bless America," Nelson Eddy, Raymond Massey, Mickey Rooney, Ethel Barrymore, Rise Stevens, Robert Sherwood, the playwright, and, for music in general, Washington's National Symphony Orchestra under Dr. Hans Kindler.

As he did in 1933 and 1937, Mr. Roosevelt planned to begin the day tomorrow with prayer at the little yellow stucco church, St. John's (Episcopal) across Lafayette Square from the White House. At 10:30 (Atlanta time), with his entourage he will motor to the capitol, through the throngs already gathered for the parade on Pennsylvania avenue.

At 10:55 a. m. Vice President-elect Henry A. Wallace will be sworn into office. Then, at 11 o'clock (Atlanta time), Mr. Roosevelt will take the oath of office, administered by Chief Justice Hughes.

"I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the oath of office of President of the United States; and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

The inaugural address will follow immediately, and by noon Mr. Roosevelt will be back at the White House for a buffet luncheon to be served to 1,000 guests. Three-quarters of an hour later the parade will begin. Its route lies across the capitol plaza, Constitution avenue, Pennsylvania avenue, Fifteenth street, and Pennsylvania avenue again. It will disband at Seventeenth, a half block beyond the White House.

At 3:30, the President will receive the governors, and at 5 there will be a tea at the White House.

For the evening, a concert is scheduled at the Departmental auditorium, at which a group of Negro musicians will be presented.

U. S. Is in Market For Laundry Men

Uncle Sam's soldiers must have clean uniforms, so the United States government is in the market for three laundry superintendents, the Civil Service Commission reported yesterday.

The post pays $3,200 for superintendent, first class; $2,600 for superintendent, second class; and $2,000 for superintendent, third class.

23,000 Bibles Are Presented States Schools

Gideons Hold World's Largest Dedication at Auditorium Here.

The Gideons yesterday held the world's largest Bible dedication, presenting 23,000 Bibles to the public schools of Georgia in exercises held at the municipal auditorium.

Andrew Wyzenbeek, of Chicago, international vice president of the Gideons, said each schoolroom of Georgia would have a Bible to be read "without comment." Georgia was the first state in which all public schools were given a Bible for the Gideons, a non-denominational organization.

The 23,000 Bibles were made possible by free-will contributions of Gideons all over the country. Approximately $4,000 was given by Gideons from 18 states at a breakfast yesterday. Gideons from Wisconsin contributed $1,000 to the Georgia dedication.

Speakers included S. A. Fulton, of Milwaukee, Wis.; R. G. Le Tourneau, of Toccoa, Ga., international president of the Gideons; Mrs. Dorothy Strathearn, of New York; A. E. Lewis, of Eau Claire, Wis., and Wyzenbeek.

TRAIN HOSTS—The Young Democrats of Georgia, who had two special cars on the Governor Talmadge inaugural special to Washington, were hosts to the entire train company at some time or another during the northbound trip. Here are a group in the refreshment car with Wiley L. Moore Jr., left, and Elmore Thrash, right, acting as bartenders en route. The cars were in the first section of the special.

and souls of the American people and added resurrection would come to Georgia as well as to the nation.

"We have pride in our statehood," he said, "Georgia has her problems, but she always comes back when she gets down."

Congressman Carl Vinson, chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee, acted as toastmaster and introduced the distinguished Georgians. Approximately 100 members of the Governor's party attended the luncheon.

All Georgia members of congress were present and were induced by Congressman Hugh Peterson, president of the Georgia State Society, who also presented other guests.

Seated at the head table were Governor and Mrs. Talmadge; Congressman and Mrs. E. E. Cox; Senator and Mrs. George; Senator Russell; Charles D. Redwine, president of the Georgia senate; Congressman and Mrs. Malcolm Tarver; Randall Evans Jr., speaker of the Georgia house of representatives; and Mrs. Evans; Mrs. Bill Kimbrough, the Governor's daughter, and Congressman Vinson.

Congressman John Gibson, of Douglas, who took his seat among the national lawmakers about two weeks ago, was labeled the "freshman" member of the Georgia delegation. Among others attending the dinner were Congressmen Robert Ramspeck, Paul Brown, Frank Wheelchel, Stephen Pace, Sidney Camp, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Peterson, John Whitley, Lindley Camp, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Conger, Representative Dave Atkinson, of Chatham county; Dr. and Mrs. S. L. Taylor, Judge John Rourke Sr., of Savannah, and Miss Nina Cox.

Georgia's presidential electors tonight attended a dinner for members of the electoral college from throughout the nation. Following the inauguration tomorrow, the Georgia delegates will be guests at an inaugural ball given by the Georgia State Society at the Shoreham hotel.

Tuskegee Strike Ends, Students Return Today

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Jan. 19.—Dr. F. D. Patterson, president of Tuskegee Institute, said tonight a strike of several hundred students "definitely has ended" and that classes would be resumed under normal conditions tomorrow. Approximately 55 were suspended yesterday as strike leaders, after many of the huge Negro college's 1,400 students declined to attend classes in protest against food and service in the dining room, and what they termed "too strict" regulations.

"I AM JURY OUT." LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A federal court jury was still out tonight in the case of nine leaders of the "I Am" movement, accused of mail fraud. The case went to the jury at 6:30 p. m. last Thursday.

Plane on Skis Rescues Two On Drifting Ice

Flier Saves Fisherman, Takes Off From Floe in Bay.

ESCANABA, Mich., Jan. 19.—(AP)—A ski-equipped plane manned by a Reserve officer in the Army Air Corps went to the rescue today of two commercial fishermen adrift on a huge ice floe in Green bay, off Portage Point. Green bay is an arm of Lake Michigan. The flier, Lieut. Walter Arntzen, of Escanaba, made light of his feat, declaring it was "no trick at all" to land his specially built plane on the drifting ice and take off again with his two passengers. The floe, he said, was two miles long and about a mile wide. The fishermen had been lifting their nets through a hole in the ice when the big floe broke loose from shore.

Blaze Interrupts Professor's Lunch

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 19.—(UP)—Someone knocked on the door of the apartment of Professor and Mrs. Willett Kempton while the couple was eating lunch today. Twice Mrs. Kempton called: "Come in." The only response was louder and more rapid knocking on the door. When Mrs. Kempton opened the door to investigate, a cloud of smoke billowed in. Two firemen politely told her the next apartment was burning. The fire was put out before much damage was caused.

British Stand Ready To Blast Rumanian Oil

Fields and Rail Lines Easy Targets, Say Diplomats.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A competent diplomatic authority said today the British have drawn up detailed plans for bombing Rumania's oil fields and rail lines but are holding "back" execution in abeyance for fear of the effect on the Greek war.

Although some British diplomats in the Balkans are known to have urged such bombings, the argument has been that Germany would use such action as an excuse to send its air force and perhaps troops as well into Greece. It is generally believed in diplomatic circles, however, that if Germany moved against Greece to aid the Italians, the British would retaliate with an attack on what the Nazis call their "expeditionary force headquarters" in Rumania. The British say the Nazis' vital supply depots and communication lines in Rumania would be ideal bomber targets. The rail lines from the north form a bottleneck at the Carpathians. At some points only a single track runs through the mountain passes and tunnels and over bridges.

It has also been remarked that Danube shipping could be dislocated for months by bombing attacks.

Neutral oil men at Ploesti say the industry's dislocation as a result of a slight earthquake has proved that one intensive bombing of half a dozen refinery power houses would cut off Nazi supplies of refined products for many months.

Numerous oil company executives who have been expelled from Rumania have volunteered to serve as guides on any bombing trip which might be made against Ploesti, it was said.

Knudsen Asks Industry for Aid in Census

Appeals for 'All Out Performance' of American Ingenuity.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—William S. Knudsen, director general of the office of production management, appealed today for an "all out performance of American ingenuity, backed by every machine and piece of equipment available," to supply the needs of the defense program.

In a letter to Walter D. Fuller, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, Knudsen urged industry to co-operate in supplying information for a national census of plants and equipment which the N. A. M. and affiliated organizations comprising the National Industrial Council are sponsoring.

The inventory will be taken from January 19 to 25, a period designated by the sponsors as "Preparedness Through Production Week."

Knudsen predicted that through this census industry would forge a new and powerful tool in the form of vital information for the defense of the nation.

Nazi Raiders Reported Flying Japanese Insignia

MANILA, Jan. 20 (Monday).—(AP)—Three heavily-armed German raiders, carrying Japanese insignia, sank at least six ships in the south Pacific between December 6 and 8, Filipino seamen rescued from Emirau island said upon their arrival here today. Ninety-eight seamen, all marooned on Emirau by the raiders, were set ashore by the Japanese ship Kamo Maru.

Ships sent to the bottom included three British, one New Zealander, one Norwegian merchantman, and an Australian passenger ship, the seamen said.

Powder Springs School Seeks Building Repairs

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. MARIETTA, Ga., Jan. 19.—Trustees of Powder Springs High school published a bond election notice yesterday in which it was disclosed that school patrons of the district will decide February 15 on the issuance of $12,000 bonds for "repairing, enlarging, equipping the school."

The bonds will be dated January 16, 1941, and will be paid off at the rate of $600 annually. Under the plan the final bond would be retired in 1941. Interest offered on the issue is 4 per cent.

Majority of U.S. Labor Anxious To Speed the Defense Program

68 Per Cent Willing To Work More Hours Per Week at No Increase in Rate of Pay, Dr. Gallup Finds.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP. Director, American Institute of Public Opinion. Copyright, 1941.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 19.—Where does American labor stand on the issues facing a defense-conscious United States? Much discussion has appeared in print in recent months regarding labor's role. Many articles have discussed organized labor as if its motives and goals were in some important way different from those of the rest of the country.

Today, at the end of a comprehensive survey of American public opinion on the whole subject of defense, it is apparent that the rank-and-file of organized United States labor takes virtually the same stand on the major questions facing the country in this field as the total United States electorate.

1. Like a majority of Americans in all walks of life, a substantial majority of organized labor's rank-and-file sympathize with the British cause and believe that America's future safety "depends on England winning the war."

2. Like the nation as a whole, the rank-and-file of labor believe that the present rate of defense production is too slow, and

3. Large majorities say they would be willing to work more hours per week, at no increase in the rate of pay, "if it would help speed up the defense program."

Perhaps the most interesting feature of the labor survey was the result of the question: "If it would help speed up the defense program, would you be willing to work more hours per week at the same rate of pay per hour as you are getting now?"

Among employers and employees in the population as a whole, answers to this question were 75 per cent "yes," 15 per cent "no," and 10 per cent undecided or without opinions.

Although the results may not reflect the position of certain individual unions or certain labor leaders, the vote of rank-and-file unionists was:

YES	68%
NO	27
UNDECIDED	5

Siamese Flag Hoisted In French Indo-China

BANGKOK, Thailand, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The high command said today the Thai (Siamese) flag was raised yesterday over the French protectorate of Cambodia, in French Indo-China, for the first time in more than 50 years.

Cambodia, with an area of about 65,000 square miles and a population of about 2,500,000, is widely known for the famous Angkor ruins of a "lost civilization." It lies southeast of Thailand.

Russians Entertained By U. S. Ambassador

MOSCOW, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Laurence A. Steinhardt, United States ambassador to Soviet Russia, gave a dinner at the embassy tonight for A. I. Mikoyan, Soviet commissar of foreign trade, and S. A. Lozovsky, vice commissar of foreign affairs.

Sir Stafford Cripps, British ambassador, and several other ambassadors and ministers of neutral powers were present.

How Near Is Europe?

Stubbornly blind isolationists, who persist in arguments which date from the days of sailing ships, should ask themselves how far, actually, America is, today, from Europe. They would then begin to doubt, if they are honest, the invulnerability of the waters of the Atlantic as a defense against attack upon this country.

Distance, for practical reasons, must be measured in time. It means nothing to say the Atlantic is 3,000 miles across. It always has been, but it is, in all that matters, many times narrower today than it was a century ago, even a decade ago.

When sailing ships were the only means of transportation, the Atlantic was a couple of months wide.

Today it is less than 10 hours across. Bombing planes, made in this country and destined for Britain, are crossing in steady stream, under their own power, in less than 10 hours. Ships that take off at breakfast time arrive in England the afternoon of the same day.

There are plenty of bombers in action today, and more are building, which could ferry a cargo of bombs westward across the Atlantic, dump that load of death and horror upon the cities of our eastern states, and return to their own base without need of refueling.

Of course, if the Nazis crush Britain and thus gain control of the Atlantic, there would be no need of such flights. Bases could easily be established at points far closer to New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis, to Atlanta.

But, it is necessary to remember, if we are to face the perils and the opportunities of the modern world, that our shores are only ten hours away from the shores of Europe and that even that distance is being shortened steadily and progressively. Tomorrow it may be reduced to half that time.

"What goes up must come down," said some sage of a bygone day, who ought to be here to get a load of the tax outlook.

Robert Elliott Burns

No good purpose could be served by the extradition, to Georgia, of Robert Elliott Burns, he escaped convict from this state who used imagination to capitalize upon his incarceration for an armed holdup staged here.

Burns is a lover of the spotlight and a man who revels in the pose of martyrdom. He pattered his own financial nest by selling, to illiterate publishers and equally gullible readers, fantastic story of his life as a Georgia convict that used blatant exaggeration for sensationalism, based upon a minimum of truth to provide a semblance of verisimilitude.

If, as alleged, he has gotten into new trouble with the law in New Jersey, let that state deal with him. There is no reason why Georgia should be called upon to discipline anyone for fractions of Jersey law.

As far as this state is concerned, Burns might better be forgotten. There is no need to launch a new flood of slander against the able, slander which large elements of the public are only too glad to accept as truth merely because it is sensational. Neither Burns nor his crime are worth the trouble.

A strike in a corset factory is moved now a court of law. We wouldn't know, but isn't stay in the proceedings indicated?

The Wilfully Blind

The peculiar myopia afflicting chieftains the senate isolation bloc reached a new low when Senator Bennett Clark remarked that he isn't particularly anxious to question William Blitt because "I wouldn't believe him anyway."

There are none so deaf as those who will not listen. There are none so narrow as those who impute to all who represent opposing views untruthfulness. It is one spot in which the Golden Rule evidently is not applicable, because it is evident Senator Clark would not listen to any person's statement that he is not to be believed.

Reasonable men, such as this country should have in its senate, would be willing to listen and learn from all men, all viewpoints. But instead, Bennett Clark strays from the footsteps of his illustrious father to the low road of personal feeling. He is, it may be noted, anxious to question Ambassador Joseph Kennedy.

It cannot be denied that Kennedy can give the senate important information. Equally, neither Clark nor any other member of the exclusive "gentlemen's club" of the senate, can deny the importance of the information Blitt can impart. It is equal if not greater in importance than Kennedy's. So it is with ill grace that Bennett Clark stoops to impute untruths to Blitt, who has served his country in grave danger—danger as grave as any faced by a soldier—and who has served it well.

Starched shirt fronts on musicians are thought by Toscanini to make for sharper acoustics. For a Debussy reverie, though, some may prefer the soft collar.

Traffic

Mayor LeCraw's plan for solution of Atlanta's traffic problem illustrates, once again, that there can be no magic formula which will immediately do away with congestion and end all danger of street fatalities.

The traffic problem can only be solved if all interested realize that it is something which is only amenable to improvement, not to immediate solution. By steady improvement, however, the condition may be so improved that this city can, if it will, enjoy a reputation for traffic handling that shall be the envy of most other municipalities.

Such improvement, however, can only come about through complete and sympathetic co-operation by all concerned, which means everybody.

Mayor LeCraw recognized this fact when he called upon the police traffic department for co-operation by every member, utmost courtesy and intelligent handling at all points of congestion.

"Our major objective," said the mayor, "is to reduce traffic fatalities and to reduce congestion."

The mayor outlined various proposals for progress toward this objective. They will, all of them, aid in the effort but, in the final analysis, it is the courteous and sympathetic co-operation of police, of motorists, of pedestrians, that will provide the answer.

Care and courtesy are the watchwords which will bring about the desired result.

A congress of elephants on a railroad right-of-way held up a freight an hour in the Congo. It is humiliating when the train has to stop, look and listen.

"America Trembles"

So now the Japanese have the effrontery to assert that the United States Pacific fleet is a "challenge and a threat" to Japan, and offer some gratuitous advice to this country, to the effect that we should withdraw our fleet from Hawaii "as the best way to keep American troops out of foreign wars."

It is, perhaps, not surprising that the Japanese are under the impression this country is afraid of them and they can, therefore, tell us what to do and how to behave, with impunity. There has been so much loud talk by American isolationists, it is but natural the Nipponese mind should begin to conceive of Uncle Sam as an overfat rabbit, ready to scurry to the safety of its own hole whenever anyone makes a threatening sound or gesture.

Too, Japan knows this country has continued to ship materials for war to the Japanese themselves, thus indirectly helping in the attempted rape of China.

"America trembles at the shadow over the Pacific," said one newspaper in Tokyo, following Secretary of State Hull's appearance before the house Foreign Affairs Committee, advocating passage of the aid-to-Britain bill.

If Tokyo persists in interpreting the United States policy in the Pacific as a trembling from fear, she is apt to wake up some morning and learn to her sorrow she cannot tweak the eagle's feathers with safety.

Editorial Symposium

TAXES AHEAD.

"One of the major problems facing the new congress is that of providing additional taxes to meet a greater part of the costs of total defense," says the WASHINGTON STAR, which feels that President Roosevelt made a "sound recommendation" when he urged "a larger percentage of defense payments be financed through current tax receipts." And the LOS ANGELES TIMES feels that "As for a new tax program conceived on the old lines, while that is probable enough judging by the New Deal's past record, the nation may well groan at the prospect. There is promise of an improvement in the tax structure: the revised proposal to tax income from state and municipal bonds."

Meanwhile, speaking of the general tax burden, the OKLAHOMAN, of Oklahoma City, suggests the enactment of "a simple law providing that all people shall be exempt from all taxes for three successive years and then be required to turn into the treasury every penny they earn and every pound they produce in every fourth year." The OKLAHOMAN believes "such a plan would stir the wildest anti-tax insurrection seen on earth since" the Boston tea party. "No political party could survive the resultant massacre. But the anger of the populace would be entirely due to the fact that the people had discovered at long last what government has been doing to them through the years. The scheme would not increase the tax burden: it might conceivably reduce it."

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

THE PRESIDENT'S GOOD RESOLUTIONS

ON the occasion of his first inaugural, it would be a fine thing, if the President made two good resolutions. In the solemn ceremony at the capitol, he must accept appalling responsibilities. He has the vigor and self-confidence to bear them easily. Indeed, after eight grueling years in the White House, he is now a stronger leader, less petty and partisan, broader and more national in his views, than he has been since the first hundred days of the New Deal.

But a number of wise men and women close to him are beginning to wonder how long he can carry both his proper responsibilities, now far greater than ever before, and the vast load of unnecessary trivia which he has also shouldered. If he makes the two good resolutions above-mentioned, he will divest himself of this load.

The first resolution is to improve the organization of the administration. As an administrator, the President has two serious faults. He does not seem to care a pin for his subordinates hamper and obstruct major policies by their personal quarrels. And he does not seem to see the difference between simple, effective administrative machinery, in which authority is concentrated and clearly fixed, and a sort of Rube Goldberg invention, by which endless interdepartmental committee meetings, liaison reports, bureau clearances and the like must precede every governmental action.

BUREAUCRATIC BICKERING The second of these faults is bad enough. It is shocking, for instance, that despite the establishment of the OPM, the basic responsibility for the air program should still be vaguely scattered between the Army procurement, the Navy procurement and the defense commission. Yet the results of the President's tolerance of bureaucratic bickering are, if anything, even worse.

Several important departments are poisoned by foolish conflicts among the top officials. At the State Department, most important of all things, a sharp-tongued junior has nicknamed the place "the snake pit." Instead of the normal tapping sound, the departmental typewriters commonly emit a low hiss. Besides the intradepartmental rows, there are feuds in progress between the Treasury and Reserve Board, the State Department and Treasury, the State and Justice Departments, and the two biggest and most active governmental groups, the New Dealers and the businessmen brought in for the defense effort. This is only a partial list. The President would take a whole page to enumerate all the governmental vendettas.

The situation was neatly summed up by an able man recently attached to the administration, who remarked ruefully, "My biggest surprise came at the start, when I found that people speaking of the 'enemy' were referring, not to the Axis powers, but to the fellow in the office across the hall." The results of the situation are twofold. First, no one dealing with the government can hope for final decisions, since application to one side in a feud invariably means opposition by the other. And second, innumerable questions, even of the most fantastically petty sort, are unnecessarily referred to the President, who must waste on them time directly needed for more pressing work.

If the President will but make and carry through the first good resolution, his burden will be lightened by half. The feuds and the faults in the governmental mechanism are interacting, for the local divisions of labor and dispersals of responsibility generate the feuds, and the feuds render the already cumbersome machinery almost impossible to operate. The second good resolution will lighten the President's burden still further, for it is simply to delegate authority which can be exercised by other men.

ON PETTY ROUTINE It is incredible how much of the President's time, every minute of which is now taken up with little matters: pardon cases. He cannot even read his constitutional duty to sign bills and pass on pardons, but if he would let other men make findings of fact and submit recommendations, he would save anywhere from half a day a week, which these tasks now require, to the two or three days weekly he uses to cope with the flood of private bills towards the close of congressional sessions.

Then too, even on the big things, he insists on needlessly minute personal investigation. When the Navy chose sites for the Caribbean bases granted by the British, competent men looked over the ground. A huge mass of facts was accumulated. Any normal chief of state would have had this mass boiled down to a short memorandum, stating the pros and cons where the choice was doubtful, and offering the Navy's recommendations. Instead, the President went over every smallest detail, and only approved the Navy's plan after interminable conference. It is the same with national defense, of which he has taken personal charge. And although he now allows his executive assistants, Lauchlin Currie, James Rowe, Lowell Mellett and their colleagues, to do the spadework on most of the problems of peace-time government, he has outlined their duties so vaguely that even they cannot serve him as efficiently as they would like to.

Probably the President does not mind bureaucratic bickering, does not bother with efficient organization, and does not trouble to delegate, because he likes to keep all the reins in his own hands. But his task is now too great for that. At this moment, no ambassador to London has been chosen because his candidate was opposed by all his subordinates, while his subordinates could not agree on a candidate of their own. At this moment, pressing and complex decisions on such major matters as Britain's shipping needs and the best system of economic defense, are urgently called for. These are what should preoccupy the President.

Gideon Bibles.

It is hardly necessary to explain who are the modern Gideons. Just for the sake of the record, however, they form a group of Christian businessmen who believe that the surest way to a better state of affairs is through more universal reading and knowledge of the Bible.

Their object in life, therefore, is to place as many copies of the Bible as possible in places where they are most apt to be read.

For years all travelers have been familiar with the Gideon Bible to be found in practically every hotel room in America. The Gideons started out, years ago, to give sufficient copies of the Bible to the hotels of the nation that there should be one in each room, everywhere. They've come, it seems to me, mighty close to reaching their goal in this activity.

The hope, anyway, is that guests in hotels could welcome the opportunity to read the Book.

A New Activity.

Now, the Gideons have undertaken a newer objective. They want to place a Bible in every classroom in every public school. This week the Gideons are dedicating 20,000 Bibles for the public schools of Georgia. These, with 2,000 already given in this state, will provide one for each teacher's desk. Georgia will be the first state completely supplied with these Gideon classroom Bibles.

The Books have been given in other states, but in none in sufficient number for every schoolroom. In Oregon recently 10,000 were presented. In California, 15,000. And so on. But Georgia is the first state completely covered.

Valuable In Varied Ways.

I am not going to try, here, to enter into an explanation why the Bible is so important for children's study from a religious viewpoint. That fact has, surely, been sufficiently emphasized from the pulpit, and if it needs added exposition, surely there are enough ministers to do the job.

But there is another usage for the Bible which every scholar should know and remember.

FAIR ENOUGH

Smart? Or Crazy?

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Nothing could shake me worse than to discover one day all across Page 1 of the papers that instead of being a genius and wizard Professor Albert Einstein was just plain crazy, but it is something to think about, nevertheless, because, after all, how do we know? If a man so smart that nobody else can understand him how do we know he is smart? How do we know he isn't making up out of his head, and even when he writes it down, why, you can't even print it, because we don't have any words or letters or ink and you have to take pictures of it and print the pictures instead. Like when little kids are just learning to make chicken tracks on a piece of paper with a pencil and they say these marks spell something, so you enter into the spirit of the thing and say it's wonderful, but of course you are the case of a little kid you know it is just a gag.

But you take, for instance, down at Princeton, they have a thing they call the department for advanced thinking, and, just as regular as clockwork, they get a certain number of hours a week and think, but you can't understand it because it is all 'way out of this world, but, nevertheless, they claim it is very tasty if you know the score. They get around a blackboard and make signs on it like you make playing hopscotch or like you write on the wall of the phone booth when you are waiting for your party, but they claim these marks mean something mysterious, and the way they talk it up you just take it for granted, and everybody says they certainly are marvelous, and how can they stand it to be so smart.

What I want to know is how do we know it isn't all a gag, and maybe they get together in somebody's room at night and play ticktacktoe, and decide they will juice it up and call in the reporters and tell them they have just discovered a new kind of gas in the sun, and these scorecards of the ticktacktoe tournament—well, they represent the idea, but if anybody wants to know just how they figure that out they say you are too dumb to understand. Anyway, even if we have got some reporters from Harvard now, well, after all, you may ask any girl who has been to an affair with a Harvard student and they tell you they get their share of dummies at Harvard, too, and Einstein could fool them as easy as he could fool the next one.

I mean if you think a thought that doesn't make any sense and you tell it to me, well, naturally, I look you over to see if you have been gnawing a crock, because if your idea doesn't make any sense it means I am dumb or you are. Like, if I do say it myself, we didn't raise any half-wits in our family, and I could always count my change, so if a thought doesn't make sense the joke is on you, and it certainly does mean that I am a dummy. But these wizards, they make a lot of marks that aren't letters at all or even numbers but just hooks, like you check a laundry list and plus and minus and divide by a mark that looks like a mistake, and they say that is their wonderful new idea and you are supposed to collapse.

How do they know so much about the sun just from looking at it through a piece of greased paper or a spyglass and putting down marks when my eyes are as good as anybody's, and if they say space curves you are supposed to give them a big write-up.

Or suppose I get a press agent to spread it around. They do? How I have made up some positively new thoughts, but nobody can even understand what they are about, are they going to give me a house and a salary to come down to Princeton and just think in my pajamas and slippers and an old sweater, because I am a wizard? Or will the family go to the judge and say they are afraid to have me around talking that way and making goofy marks on paper, so how about giving me a test, and if I can't do it to the jury, well, you know where they will put me. They will put me away under glass somewhere until I come out of it. If the jury can't understand me I can't say the jury is crazy and you better put them away. They will say I am the one who is nuts, and that is what bothers me about Professor Einstein and the rest of the advanced thinkers at Princeton, because to hear them tell you the rest of the world is to be locked up because we don't understand them.

I don't know. Maybe we are nuts and they are smart, when you come to think how all they have to do is live at Princeton free with a pretty good salary and the boss can't ever check up on whether they are doing high-class thinking, because how can he tell, and every night they can run up to New York and see all the shows? That isn't so dumb.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

AN OLD DEMOCRAT

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 19.—This is a frank admission. Or a confession. I am an old Democrat. Not a young Democrat. I want this to be official. This is not a sudden announcement, or is a decision arrived at suddenly. All of a sudden I know, without any question of doubt, that I am an old Democrat. This is, as I said, not a hasty decision. It is arrived at after due deliberation and discussion with Mr. Gladstone Williams, the only Washington newspaper correspondent who correctly estimated the recent victory of Mr. F. D. Roosevelt. Mr. Earl Mann sat in on this conference. There is some doubt about Mr. Mann. He is a sort of borderline case. But in the case of your correspondent, there is no doubt. Your correspondent is not a young Democrat. He is an old Democrat. I would not have readers laugh at this or consider it lightly. To be an old Democrat is something. Mr. Williams, who also is a young Democrat, getting older every day, thinks that by Wednesday he may be an old Democrat. "For one or two days," says Mr. Williams, "I may qualify as a young Democrat. But after that I am not, so I suppose I may as well qualify myself as an old Democrat."

FULTON COUNTY DEMOCRATS

I really never had thought about this question until Saturday night. The Fulton County Young Democrats Club had two special cars and a refreshment car at which one might obtain peanuts, popcorn and liquid refreshment.

I know most of the young Democrats. W. L. (Pinkey) and Pete Moore, are two of them. Herbert Hayes is president. Elmo Thrash and Bud Gibson were squire Miss Enid Hardee and Miss Ann Johnson. These were just two of the attractive young Democrats along on the trip. Alec McLendon was a bouncer. It was a good party. Mr. Mann and your correspondent were asked to visit the cars and the refreshment car hired by the young Democrats. We did. We talked with them. Later on we sang with them. The best song was "Sweet Adeline." They sang other songs. They sang the Talmadge campaign song, "An Apple For The Teacher." In this song Mr. Talmadge speaks of the unpaid teachers. Kenneth Rogers, The Constitution photographer, won the amateur prize as the singing champion. He did not out-sing them. He out-hollered them.

Mr. Mann and I sang with them. (Editor's note: "Sang" is used advisedly.) We talked with them. We ate with them. We felt young. We felt, up to two or three o'clock in the morning, as young as anyone.

At three-thirty Mr. Mann called me aside and asked:

"How do you feel?"

"Very tired," said I. "My feet hurt. And I am sleepy."

"I am tired, too," said Mr. Mann.

Just then two or three of the young Democrats grabbed Mr. Mann and swept him toward the refreshment bar. "Yippee," said the young Democrats.

"Yippee," said Mr. Mann. A moment later he said "Ouch." Your correspondent sat on the sidelines. No one should "yippee" at him. Now and then some of the young Democrats would come over and say:

"I hope you aren't too tired, sir. May we get you your slippers?"

All the pretty young things rushed right by your correspondent. They never took a second look. One or two of them looked at Mr. Mann and thought better of it and went on.

COFFEE, UNCLE? One pretty young thing named Ann came up to Mr. Mann and said, "Could I get you some coffee, uncle?"

This infuriated your correspondent and humiliated Mr. Mann. Your correspondent went to bed. He was envious of Mr. Mann who seemed to be a young Democrat. This question momentarily upset Mr. Mann. He carried on. About 20 minutes later Mr. Mann came back and went to bed.

I asked him about it. "Well," he said, "I can take just so much." One of the feminine young Democrats came up and said that if I was going to be at the dance it would be all right for me to go as she would look after me. She said that I was a fatherly sort of person.

All night the young Democrats kept on. We old Democrats snored. This morning we all were getting off the train. There were visitors down to see us. Mr. Mann was looking very chipper in his uniform. Near him there was one of those handsome young things. One of the visitors came up.

"Is this your granddaughter, Mr. Mann?" asked Mr. "Hell Bent" Edwards.

"I do not even know her," said Mr. Mann coldly. "I am an old Democrat." At last he was placed.

Shortly afterward Mr. Mann came over and filled out his application blank for membership in the old Democrats club whose motto is, "To hell with the young Democrats and who do they think they are anyhow?"

I admit this is a terrible topic with the third administration of Mr. Roosevelt coming up, but I wish to take a fall out of the young Democrats. What if they can stay up until 5 o'clock this morning? Youth isn't everything—or, as Mr. Mann asks, is it?

I wish I had never heard of the young Democrats.

No Scientist Ever Finds the Truth

By Standing Afar and Mocking It

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

One of the strangest features of this scientific age is the inconsistency of the many educated people who are awed by science and yet show little respect for the method by which its wonders are accomplished.

Science investigates and compares and tests until trial and error have separated the false from the true.

Darwin once assumed that a certain explanation must be the true one because he could find no other. But he immediately chided himself for such unreason, as every true scientist would do. Is there anybody who never makes a factual statement unless he has evidence to establish the truth of it?

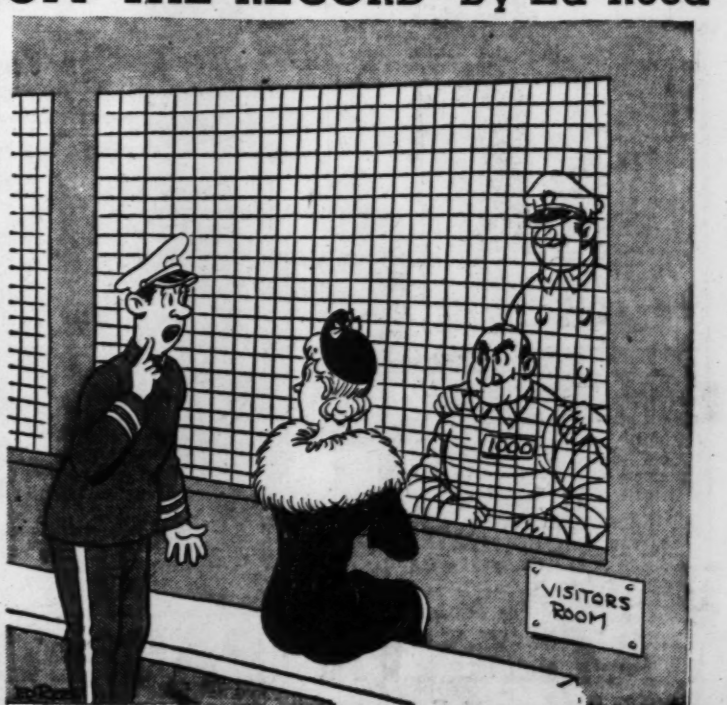

People say this and that about the morals of college students, yet it isn't likely that any one of them has investigated a single college.

Even a scientist will say that prayer has no effect, though never once has he uttered a sincere prayer in order to test its worth. And well-known writers ridicule religion and tell us how miserably the church is failing, though they haven't attended a church service since childhood and their conclusions have no basis except their own prejudices.

The most contemptuous critics of religion are those who judge it by the worst examples they can find. Like those who judge the south by Tobacco Road, or judge a race by its worst elements, they judge all religion by the excesses of some backward group of people, defeated by poverty, malnutrition, ignorance and disease, who have learned to hypnotize themselves by mass emotion and find forgetfulness in rites as primitive as voodoo. These poor creatures deserve pity—not ridicule. Their religion matches their understanding. And the shame of it is not in religion, but in the social system that develops the kind of people who can enjoy such orgies.

People develop a religion to match their own development. They get from it what they put in, and each is rewarded according to his capacity. The church manifestly gives the blessing of peace and hope to the millions who go with a sincere desire to find it.

Recalls Old "Blick"
And Its Numerous
Typing Successors

One of those stray items used as newspaper "fillers" to make a column come out even, informs us that the first portable typewriter was patented by George C. Blickenderfer in 1892.

I wasn't doing any typewriting in that year but I will recall the "Blick" of many years afterward, probably vastly improved. I wore my fingers out on one, and my patience, too. Waiting for it to catch up with my lightning ideas.

The "Blick" had a little wheel or cylinder with letters and figures on it. You pushed down a key and the cylinder revolved until the right letter was in position and then it thumped against the paper—and there was your "w" or "x" as the case might be. But, gosh, it was slow.

After that I was introduced to the old-time "blind" machine, on which the letter keys sprang up and down from below the "platen" and jumped as fast as you'd like. But to see what you'd typed you had to turn the platen upside down.

The Associated Press, if I'm remembering correctly, stuck to the old "blind" machine for years after it had become otherwise obsolete. Because it would make so many carbon copies—clear and legible. But I think it has long gone the way of all flesh—and outmoded mechanisms.

There are several excellent "portables" on the market today. Newspapersmen—especially sports writers and others who travel on assignments and turn out their stuff on trains and in automobiles or airplanes—couldn't get along without them.

But I don't like them—except when I have nothing better. I like the heavier and sturdier typewriters screwed down to a desk, which will take punishment.

I write a lot about typewriters. Why not? They are my most intimate companions. It's a wonder what they will stand. Once I paid $45 for a rebuilt machine—and earned around $30,000 on it before it finally was traded in for a later model. That covered more than five years—with no repair bills, no ink except ribbons. I'll bet that old machine is still going strong—somewhere.

The Herald's New Suit.
The Bullock Herald, of Statesboro, has bought a new suit. No, not a new outfit of type but a coat, vest and two pairs of pants. The investment was announced proudly in last week's issue.

The Herald is the property of the three Coleman brothers: Leodel, G. C. Jr., and Jim. They are about the same size except as to feet and their wardrobe, like the newspaper, is considered joint property. As a tuxedo suit in a frat house.

The Herald's story declares there hadn't been a new suit in the family in three years. Conferences had been held on the subject but the auditor and accountant of the brothers invariably vetoed any wild extravagance.

But affairs reached a crisis last week. The last pair of pants yielded to wear. By a stroke of fate the firm of H. Minkovitz announced a sale with 25 per cent off everything. Who could resist such a coincidence?

But the purchase threatened to create a schism in the Coleman family and a bust-up of the Bullock Herald.

Because the "skipper," being a young college lad, asked out a suit of racetrack checks. Leodel, editor and business manager, preferred something conservative, such as the local head banker might wear. Jim desired something sort of in-between.

I wish I could tell you just what was chosen for the three-way suit, but the friend who sent me the clipping from the Herald cut it off too short. But I hope it was something conservative, for I'm about the same shape and size as Leodel and the next time we meet in Savannah or elsewhere I might borrow it for some especially swank occasion.

Sister "Subbing."
The eyes of Beth Williams Powers, of the Quiltman Press, have been bothering her for some time and last week she turned over her column, "This Weary World," to her sister, Pearl—known in Brooks county as the "Pearl of Great Price."

Possibly because she always orders a 15-cent drink at the drugstore when with a date and thus loses friends and gets rid of a lot of pests.

Well, for a maiden effort, Pearl turned out a good column. About her "druthers," which means about what she'd "druther do" than go fishing or wrap up any more holiday gifts in red cellophane.

Georgia's numerous readers and admirers of Beth will be glad to learn that if she decides to retire to her farm Pearl can carry on.

And there's the story about the woman who said:
"I pride myself on my excellent memory. There are only three things I can't remember—faces and names and—I can't remember the third one."

Search for Missing Bomber Is Fruitless
MCHORD FIELD, Wash., Jan. 19.—(P)—Forest Rangers seeking a missing United States Army bomber, returned early today from a fruitless trek into the wilderness beneath Mt. Ranier and Mt. Adams, where puffs of smoke, resembling signals, had been sighted.

The Rangers said the smoke had come from a trapper's campfire. Their report left Army officials virtually without clues in the hunt for the Douglas bomber, missing since Thursday with seven men aboard.

Protest Seen In Halting of French Craft

Such Action Expected If Brazil Makes Any Move at All.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 19.—(P)—A high Brazilian source said today that if Brazil takes any action in the halting and apparent seizure of the 8,199-ton French freighter Mendoza by a British warship yesterday, the action will follow the lines of earlier violations of the American neutrality zone.

The Mendoza, the navy ministry declared yesterday, was stopped by the British auxiliary cruiser Asturias about five miles off the southern coast as she was moving out of the dangerous shoal waters at that point, and then proceeded to sea with the Asturias. The newspaper O Globo said the British put a prize crew on board.

In earlier violations of the neutrality zone, particularly in the case of the British-registered German freighter Wakama which was scuttled by its crew last February, the Brazilian government notified the other American nations and a protest was forwarded to Britain.

Officials here said there was no question of violation of Brazilian territorial waters, since the Mendoza was halted two miles outside the three-mile limit.

British Troops Cross Border Of East Africa

Italians Retreat From Last Town in Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 19.—British motorized units pursuing fleeing Italian soldiers along the 200-mile Sudanese front were believed tonight to have crossed the border into Italian East Africa after forcing the fascists from Kassala, the last Anglo-Egyptian Sudan city held by Premier Mussolini's men.

Their position precarious after weeks of constant patrol action by the British, the Italians withdrew three days ago from Kassala, only 15 miles from Italian Eritrea.

It was only today, however, that the British announced recapture of the town the Italians had captured last July.

The Italians were said to have left Kassala, capital of a valuable cotton-growing section, almost without firing a shot.

Ethiopian irregulars operating in the fascist rear were believed partly responsible for this withdrawal.

The British general headquarters and communists also reported a heavy raid on Tobruk, Italian base in Libya which the British have surrounded, with a huge fire started near gasoline dumps in the besieged port.

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.
Spent last Wednesday in Florida, mostly in Gainesville, where the Florida Baptist convention was in session. I was impressed by the ways, with the large percentage of Georgians who now live in Florida. When I looked at that crowd of pastors, it appeared that fully half of them were Georgians, and the laymen in the convention, many of them, were Georgia-born.

Gainesville is an interesting city. The University of Florida, of course, one of the chief factors of the community. I reminded President Tiger that we would try to forget what his boys did to Tech and Georgia in 1936, but that we would not promise to forgive. The train runs right down Main street in Gainesville, but it must not move faster than five miles per hour. The flowers in Gainesville were plentiful and beautiful. The people were very friendly.

Camp Blanding is one of the biggest things in upper Florida. You can't miss it. The trains are full of people going or coming from Blanding. The highways likewise. Every man in the sleeper going down to Jacksonville was on his way for some business or military matter in connection with Blanding. It was about the same on the car coming back.

Jacksonville is seething with alleged prosperity. With several hours of time on my hand between trains I elected to walk about the place. On a stroll from the station to the retail center, I kept an account of the soldiers I saw on the sidewalks. I counted up to 462, and decided to let it go at that.

New streets are jammed with new automobiles, buses, truck and army rigs. I thought the traffic situation in Atlanta was the worst in the world, but I wouldn't be so certain about it since that stroll of three hours around Jacksonville the other night. And talk about speed! When they do get out of a jam, they sell out.

The hotels and restaurants were jammed. Friend from Atlanta told me he had waited all day, trying to get a hotel room, and was driving on to St. Augustine. Money seemed plentiful. I paused in front of a sports window to eye the attractive display of rods, reels, lures, etc., and inside was told by the proprietor that they had sold more fishing tackle this winter than any season, not excepting '29.

Liquor stores and saloons were jammed. Soldiers were the chief purchasers, apparently. Gambling joints were thronged. I asked a soldier who stood on the corner, drinking a bottle of wine, how often he came into the city. "Every time I have a dollar," was the answer.

Aid-To-Britain Bill Opponents Laud Kennedy

Expansion of Remarks Is Hoped for at Hearing.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(P)—Opponents of the administration's lease-lend bill for aid to Britain today applauded Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy's stand on the measure, and expressed hope he would expand on his criticism of it when he testifies this week before the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

In a radio address last night, the retiring ambassador to Britain, although urging aid for the British, said he did not feel the nation faced such immediate danger as to justify the surrender of the authority and responsibility of congress.

Commenting on Kennedy's address, Representative Fish, Republican, New York, said he endorsed "the sentiment it contains in every respect."

Chairman Bloom, Democrat, New York, of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, declared, on the other hand, that Kennedy made "just another ostrich speech, with his head deep in the sands of unreality."

The chairman said he still preferred to "take the advice of Secretary Hull, Morgenthau, Stimson and Knox and Mr. Knudsen and, above all, that of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

William S. Knudsen, defense production chief, and the cabinet members all urged enactment of the bill as a measure necessary for this country's defense.

Kennedy is scheduled to testify Tuesday. Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, General Hugh S. Johnson, Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, and Hanford MacNider, former American Legion national commander, are on the committee's list of witnesses for later in the week.

GERMAN EMPHASIZES U. S. IN NO DANGER
BERLIN, Jan. 19.—(P)—German news services gave extended space today to the radio address of Joseph P. Kennedy, former ambassador, to Great Britain.

The accounts emphasized the opinion attributed to him that no extraordinary danger confronts the United States, and that in any event the war in Europe is not America's war.

Hunger Strike Threatened By Ex-King Carol

Exile Wants Pledge U. S. Will Not Give Him Visa.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(P)—Former King Carol of Rumania is so despondent he threatens to begin a fast to death on Tuesday unless he can escape from Spain by then, friends of the abdicated Rumanian monarch said today.

They described his plight as "desperate" and said a decision by the United States to deny him entry to this country might be his only salvation in the complicated legalities which hold him in a seemingly inextricable web in Spain.

Carol probably is the only refugee in all Europe whose happiness depends on not getting an American visa.

His friends, saying their information was from the former king's authorized representatives, stated the strange situation this way: "His Majesty will hunger-strike to death if America does not promise Spain that the United States will under no circumstances give him a visa to go to America before the war is over."

Spanish Foreign Minister Ramon Serrano Suner, they said, advised the British and United States ambassadors in Madrid that Spain would let Carol go to Portugal if both their countries promised not to admit him.

New Action Seen In Case of Burns

The case of the state of Georgia against Robert Elliott Burns was resting quietly on the surface yesterday but indications underneath were that it is emphatically not forgotten and that action can be expected again before spring.

Though officials said "there's nothing doing," efforts to obtain "new extradition papers" from Solicitor General John A. Boykin's office were made Saturday.

Burns, under six-to-10-year sentence for armed robbery in Atlanta, is sheltered in New Jersey by the refusal of Governor Harry Moore to grant extradition. Governor Talmadge Friday signed a request for extradition but canceled it after Governor Moore said he would not honor the request.

Japanese-Controlled Court Official Wounded

HONGKONG, Jan. 19.—(P)—An unidentified man shot and wounded Huang Chung-kang, 38, president of the Japanese-controlled Amoy district court, on January 17, Dornel, Japanese news agency, reported today.

The attack occurred in the International Settlement at Kulung-say. Dornel said the authorities searched the neighborhood in vain for Huang's assailant.

Greeks Hurled Back by Italian Counter Blow

Both Sides Suffer Huge Losses in Battle on Coast.

STRUGA, Yugoslavia, Jan. 19.—(P)—Reports reaching this border town today said the Greeks and Italians have been fighting hard for the past 24 hours in the coastal sector near Dukati, north of Chimara.

The Greeks pushed forward, the reports said, but the Italians counter-attacked and drove them back to their positions with heavy losses on both sides.

In the Klisura-Tepelini sector day and night fighting was going on with indications that a decisive battle was shaping up, the reports said.

Greek airmen were said to have bombed the port of Valona, but there were no reports of the damage.

1,000 U. S. Troops In Newfoundland

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(P)—A thousand American soldiers already are at the recently acquired United States base at Newfoundland, it was disclosed today by Louis E. Emerson, commissioner of defense for Newfoundland.

He said American architects and engineers are also there and that although plans called for completion of construction at the base in 18 months, work was being rushed and might be finished sooner.

Emerson and John H. Penson, commissioner or finance of Newfoundland, left unexpectedly on the Atlantic Clipper for Lisbon en route to London to take part in final negotiations on the base in that country, one of several acquired from Great Britain by the United States four months ago in exchange for 50 destroyers.

Cleaning

When... Does Clothing Need Cleaning?

- When it is soiled, spotted or stained. But Even though it might show no soil or stain—it needs cleaning when any tell-tale body odors are picked up by garments worn repeatedly and are absorbed and retained.
- And Practically every time a garment shows need of pressing—it is better to have that garment cleaned. Actual cost is little more than pressing, but the advantage of the garment is in economy—since suits and dresses that are pressed without cleaning are often damaged irreparably when the heat of pressing causes the acids in perspiration and soil that are in the garment to set up in the cloth so that they can never be removed.

and for Cleanest Clothes (LAUNDRY)

All in the Game

BY JACK TROY

One and Only The Original Celtics, almost as amazing a sports organization as Bill Tilden is a sports individual, will make their annual one-night stand here Thursday at the city auditorium, playing the Police Crackers.

The Original Celtics? Is there more than one Celtic organization? Yes, there is another Celtic outfit, operating out of New York, and it claims the world championship.

On this other Celtic team are players whose names don't register in this section—Jack O'Brien and Tommy Flanagan, forwards; Al Kellett, center; Bob Snyott and Eddie Conaty, guards.

But there is only one Tilden and also there is only one Celtic basketball team.

It looked as if the Celtics were on their last legs a year ago, to write very frankly. Only on rare occasions did the team show much of the showmanship and spark of old.

There just didn't seem to be the enthusiasm and flair for the spectacular as when Dave Barry, Dutch Dehnert and Joe Lapchick used to burn up the hardwood hereabouts. Even little Davy Banks, with his clowning tactics, couldn't supply the missing punch.

The Celtics have it again this year. I didn't have to see them before writing this piece to know that they are back in old form.

The answer is Bobby McDermott. A year ago the Celtics, strangely enough, lacked a real crack shot. McDermott had absented himself for a year to play in the American Professional League.

Now he is back. The Celtics have regained their "color." Tom Meany, sports expert of P. M., the New York daily, recently called McDermott the greatest player he ever saw.

A lot of fellows who have seen a great deal of basketball will concur. McDermott shot a dozen field goals from the center of the court in a game here a couple of years back. It was the most amazing exhibition of sharpshooting I ever hope to see.

I may never see the greatest basketball player, but until I do I'll be satisfied that I have seen McDermott, who does everything and does it better than anyone else.

He is worth the price of admission alone.

Amazing Athlete Somehow, I started out with Bill Tilden and lost him in the shuffle. But that is nothing new with Tilden, the hardy perennial of American tennis. Nor is it unusual to lose something in a shuffle where the Celtics are involved.

Tilden was stranded in Paris hardly more than a year ago and it was generally accepted that he was through with tennis. He is an old man, as athletes go. A very old man.

And yet, unless the press services are fooling, Tilden beat Donald Budge in a pro tennis match the other night. And, while Alice (in dollarland) Marble is supposed to be the queenly center of attraction, a spindly-legged old man is stealing the show, according to the public prints.

How does he do it? I mean how can a man keep going forever in a game as exacting on the physique as big-time tennis?

It is not like the case of ageless Davy Banks of the Celtics. A smart basketball player can make the ball do the work, through expert passing, but the same is not true of a tennis star. He must move around or the show dies on its—and his—feet.

Big Bill just won't wear out. He shoots full of large, jagged holes the theory that an athlete's legs are gone after 35. Tilden is not a day under 45. And he doesn't look a day older than King Tutankhamen.

And he is not playing fiddlewinks, mind you.

Furthermore, you can't frame a fast tennis match. Not any more than you can arrange for Molly Williamson to pin Thees Jeem Londres without the affair having a faint aura of suspicion attached.

I give up. It's too much for me. And I suspect, too, that it may be too much for Budge before the tour ends.

Too Ambitious Proof that a man can be too ambitious, especially where the prize ring is concerned, may be found in the example of Hammerin' Henry Armstrong.

Such a fighter I had never seen. He seemed to

Frank Kovacs Upsets Riggs In Three Sets

ORLANDO, Fla., Jan. 19.—(P)—Bobby Riggs, of Chicago, ran into something of a tennis maestro in the Florida State tennis tournament today and dropped an important 7-5, 1-6, 6-3 match to gangling, unpredictable Frankie Kovacs, of San Francisco, in a quarter-final match.

It was the second time in two consecutive tournaments that Riggs has lost to a player ranked lower nationally than himself. Last week at Tampa he dropped out at the hands of little Eddie Allou, of Rollins College.

Thus Kovacs, who meets Jack Kramer tomorrow in a semi-final match, set himself up to cause somebody a lot of trouble this September in the national singles at Forest Hills.

Fla. State League To Open April 17

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Jan. 19.—(P)—Florida State League directors completed preseason plans today by setting February 23 as the date for posting of $600 franchise deposits and declaring April 17 the opening day of the 140-game season which ends Labor Day.

The February meeting will be held at DeLand, where the 1941 schedule will be presented for adoption.

Tech Piles Up 302 Points in Six Contests

Sophomores Carry Load in Amazing Showing of Mundorff Men.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

An amazing Georgia Tech basketball team will try for its seventh consecutive victory tonight against the champions of the Southeastern Conference—Kentucky. The game will begin at 8 o'clock, at the Tech gym.

Manned chiefly by inexperienced sophomores, and theoretically gaping at the seams, Coach Roy Mundorff's outfit has displayed more scoring punch than any team in the league. And if the odd assortment of talent can hold together, it may yet be the Cinderella squad of 1941.

FILE UP SCORES. Starting after Christmas, Tech beat South Carolina thrice in warm-up games, took Clemson once, and then whipped league opponents Mississippi (60-47) and Vanderbilt (55-48) in successive games. All told, the Yellow Jackets have scored 302 points against 249 for six foes.

Kentucky, beaten last night by an inspired Tennessee outfit, 22-32, nevertheless is expected to give Tech all or more than Mundorff's boys can say grace over, and likely will prove the first real index of Georgia Tech's strength.

Mundorff himself is more surprised than anyone. Seven of his 11 varsity men are sophomores, he wails, and dangerously uncertain in the clutch. His three veterans—Carlton Lewis, Will Johnson and Jim Hughes—are playing indifferently, he adds, and are nothing to brag on.

Tennessee's victory over Kentucky reassured the Vols' claim as number one challenger for 1941 championship. Sideline speculators, however, recalled that Tennessee was thumped so-so by Alabama a week ago, a team which previously had been mauled by Tulane, Louisiana State and Florida.

AUBURN DANGEROUS. Undefeated Auburn, winner over Mississippi and little Spring Hill during the week, also is counted as a potentially dangerous entry in the conference tournament February 27-March 1.

Tulane, after an uncertain start, came up with a bang last week, trimming Southwestern, of Memphis, and Mississippi twice. Trial horse Vanderbilt, after tripping Sewanee in its opening loss to Georgia and Georgia Tech, Alabama's only game of the week was a 36-32 win over Louisiana State.

Augusta Captures Volleyball Meet

The Augusta Y. M. C. A. volleyball team won the Southeastern Invitational tournament here by a hard-fought two out of three games series over Columbus.

The championship round scores were Augusta 15, Columbus 12; Columbus 15, Augusta 11; and final game, Augusta 15, Columbus 13.

Seven teams took part in the tournament, which ended late Saturday night. Two were from Atlanta, and one each from Augusta, Columbus, Athens and Macon, Georgia and Birmingham, Ala.

Scores leading up to the finals were: Augusta defeated Atlanta Reds, 15-13; Augusta defeated Atlanta Blues, 15-8; Columbus beat Macon 15-5; 15-5; Columbus defeated Birmingham 15-13; 15-10.

Sabin Beats Riggs—But It's Table Tennis

OLANDO, Fla., Jan. 19.—(P)—Wayne Sabin defeated Bobby Riggs in a match here that caused no surprise in the tennis world—they were playing table tennis. Sabin also trounced Ralph Schleicher, of Winter Park, and Jack Yeider, of Orlando, to win the tournament, billed as a state championship event. Riggs won last year.

Boys' High Shaded, 38-36, Despite Comeback in Second Half.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Jan. 19.—(P)—Despite a heated last period rush which saw Boys' High of Atlanta score 17 points, the Columbus High school Blue Devil basketball team Saturday night trounced the Purple Hurricane, 38 to 36.

The local team led throughout the game, maintaining a 20-9 advantage at halftime.

In the last period surge, the invaders, paced by Captain Doyle and Dixie Cohen, threw the game in doubt until the final whistle. Fred Pennington sparked Columbus' attack with 11 points, while Boys' High scoring was dominated by Gaston and Cohen with 9 points each.

THE SPORTLIGHT

BY GRANTLAND RICE

GOLF'S HALL OF FAME.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19.—Golf's Hall of Fame is now moving into an established setting. I suggested the idea two years ago and found immediate sponsorship from the Professional Golf Association of America, more briefly known as the P. G. A.

It was suggested that I name a committee of veteran golf writers who had the background of more than 30 years of American golf. This committee includes Linde Fowler, Boston, experience 36 years; Kerr N. Petrie, New York, experience 34 years; O. B. Keeler, Atlanta, experience 34 years along the paths of the "ancient green."

The committee will offer its suggestions to more than 200 writers and column conductors who go in for golf—writers covering the bunkered landscapes of the country—and their votes shall be decisive.

It was the original idea of this committee to start things rolling by naming four men who certainly belong at the top—Walter Hagen, Bobby Jones, Francis Ouimet and Gene Sarazen, to put them alphabetically. They are, considering every angle, without any question, the four top men of American golf.

Jones and Hagen alone won 19 national championships—U. S. open and amateur, British open and amateur. Francis Ouimet, by beating Vardon and Ray in the U. S. open back in 1913, made American youth golf-conscious, removing golf from the social and financial pages to the sporting page. Gene Sarazen has won the British and U. S. opens more than once, the P. G. A. and after 20 campaigns came back last June to tie Lawson Little for the U. S. open at Cleveland.

All four were great golfers, great sportsmen, great fellows, and packed with personal color. I believe the vast majority of the golf writers will support this selection or this nomination.

The Long Parade.

The idea was to make eligible all golfers who had lived or held club positions in the United States. This, of course, would leave out such stars as Harry Vardon, Harold Hilton and Ted Ray. They were welcome invaders, but not U. S. golfers.

In addition to the homebreds and the homeborn it would leave such eligible entries as Willie Anderson, Alec Smith, MacDonald Smith, Tommy Armour, Long Jim Barnes, Bobby Cruickshank and others who have given most of their golfing time to America.

In addition to these there are other big names left—Jack McDermott who tied for the open in 1910 and then won in 1911 and 1912, the first homebred to roll back foreign-born domination; Jerry Travers, who won four U. S. amateurs and one U. S. open; Chick Evans, the first to win the U. S. amateur and U. S. open in one year—1916; Walker J. Travis, who, starting golf at 36, was the first American player to win the British amateur—in 1904; Lawson Little, a strong entry, current U. S. open champion and winner of both U. S. and British amateurs two years in a row.

If Jones, Hagen, Sarazen and Ouimet are named as the first four—as I believe they will be—the scramble for the next place should be wide open—McDermott; Evans; Travers; Alec and Mac Smith; Willie Anderson, winner of four U. S. opens, three in a row; Armour; Barnes; Travis; Little; Sweetser; Goodman; Robert A. Gardner; and then the new crop coming on—Nelson, Hogan, Snead, Guldhall and others. There is more than enough talent in sight.

The committee with the aid of Freddy Corcoran, tournament director of the P. G. A., will be ready to make the first nomination by April and so open the main door to the Hall of Fame.

Ladies and Location.

The next two problems concern the ladies of golf and the location of the Hall of Fame.

There also will be a Hall of Fame for the women stars, to be considered separately. Such golfers as Alexa Stirling, Glenna Collett, Marion Hollins, Helen Hicks and Patty Berg should be near the top.

This will be taken up in due order. There are too many women who have contributed too much to golf to have this section overlooked.

There has been a keen rush to establish headquarters for this hall. Savannah, Ga., claiming the first golf club in 1811, is already in with its request. So is St. Andrews, claiming the first golf course and club combined. Atlanta wants it in behalf of Bobby Jones, Boston in behalf of Francis Ouimet, Rochester in behalf of Walter Hagen.

Lowell Thomas, the well-known radio commentator, sponsored in a golf way by Gene Sarazen, would like to build a special hall at his place in New York and make this a golfing shrine.

Francis Ouimet suggests the Augusta National, terminus of the long winter tour, where announcements could be made each year. There is strong support for Pinehurst, during the North and South Open, as Pinehurst has been a golfing mecca for 40 years.

Tom Walsh, president of the P. G. A., asks me to delay any such selection, which is welcome news to your committee. It might even be better to shift the Hall of Fame from place to place.

This matter will be taken up later. The main idea now is to get the Hall of Fame opened and ready for its famous occupants, for those who have already qualified and for those who will come along through the years ahead.

Any golf writers who have any ideas or suggestions to offer are requested to write Freddy Corcoran, now on tour with the pros.

Revolta Routs Harry Cooper To Take Crown

Johnny's 7-6 Victory at Frisco Gives Him First Title Since 1938.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19.—(UP)—Johnny Revolta, of Evanston, Ill., who hasn't won a golf tournament since 1938, today walloped Harry Cooper, of New London, Conn., seven-up and six to play in the 36-hole final of the $5,000 San Francisco match play open.

The lanky, bushy-haired Revolta gave par and Cooper a joint beating as he whipped around the soggy Presidio course in a driving rainstorm to win $1,000 first money. Cooper got $500 as runner-up.

It was the third meeting of Cooper and Revolta at match play. Cooper put Revolta out of the P. G. A. tournament in 1937, one up, and beat him in the San Francisco 1935 tournament, 3 and 2.

But today Revolta got revenge as he slammed in a 69 on the morning round to stand three up at lunchtime and polished off the job with a sub-par 35 on the outgoing nine of the afternoon round.

Cooper had an even par for the first 18 over the muddy course, which was exceptional golf for the conditions, but he could not keep up with Revolta's hot putter, which gave him 12 one-putt greens.

Starting off with two birdies, Revolta went ahead on the second hole and was never headed. Cooper was out in 35, but was two down at the turn. Revolta went five up on the back nine, but Cooper whittled it down to three just before lunch.

Revolta kept the heat on as they played the first afternoon nine, and was one under par with a 35 while Cooper played a fair 39 to go seven down at the afternoon turn. They halved out the remaining three holes to end the match.

The victory was worth $1,000 to Revolta, and $500 to Cooper. Other leading money-winners were Tony Penna, Dayton, Ohio, $425; Jim Thomson, Chicago, Mass., $250; Jimmy Hines, Great Neck, L. I., $250; Melvin Harbert, Battle Creek, Mich., $275; Fred Wood, Vancouver, B. C., $150; Lloyd Mangrum, Oak Park, Ill., $150; Al Zimmerman, Portland, Ore., $150.

Amateur Tennis Doomed, Says Bill Tilden; Favors Open Play

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 19.—(P)—Bill Tilden, the symbol of big-time tennis, is afraid the amateur game as a business is doomed. Recovering here from leg injuries suffered in an automobile accident last week, Tilden painted a rather gloomy picture of the tennis future.

"If you mean what will happen to the game as considered from the big business angle—big gates, big crowds, big stadiums and so forth—it won't be able to stand it very long," he said.

"The Davis Cup is all over, of course. It won't work for a good many years. Of course, you can't figure just what will happen as a result of the war, but it doesn't look to me as if international sport can be reckoned upon at all."

He said this is serious because "international competition was the backbone of tennis."

This would be one reason, Tilden suggested for the development of some form of open competition.

"It would provide a substitute stimulus that the game needs," Big Bill explained.

General Electric 1941 Lines, Complete, on Display at Alexander's

Things to Make Streamlined Type Kitchens

History of W. D. Alexander Company One of Success.

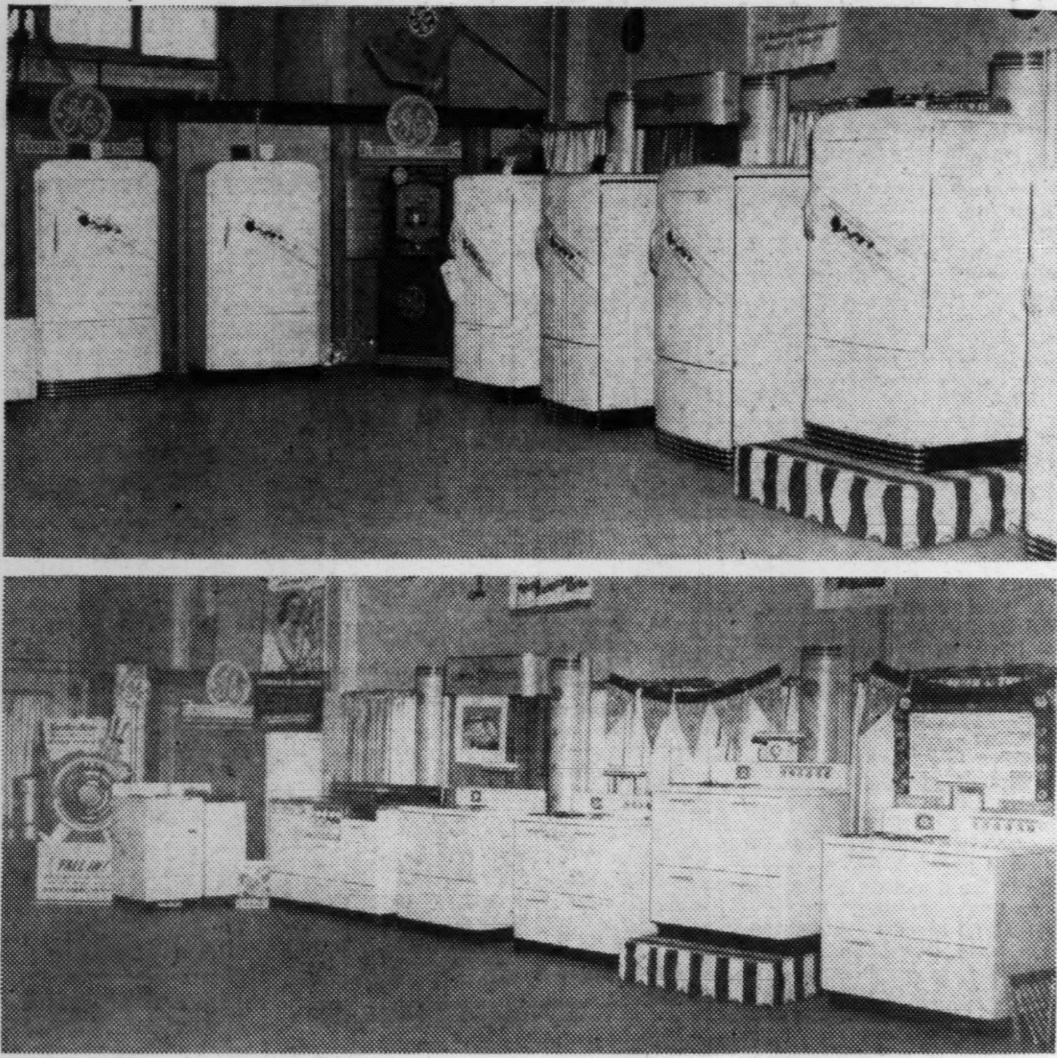

The 1941 General Electric lines, better than ever, have just been introduced to the trade. They are now on display at the wholesale display rooms of W. D. Alexander Company, 402 Peachtree street, and the public is cordially invited to come in and see all the latest developments which may be had through any General Electric dealer.

The history of the beginning of the Alexander Company is one of interest to the many friends and patrons of this concern.

Back in 1927, when the General Electric Company made its first announcement to the public of the General Electric refrigerator, the present distributor, W. D. Alexander Company, began its venture in the electric appliance business.

From the beginning has developed the present state-wide organization of dealers who serve customers with the finest line of electric home appliances that General Electric has ever offered.

At the start, there was only the General Electric domestic refrigerator, which revolutionized the industry with its hermetically sealed unit, carrying five years of protection to the user. Gradually, other lines have been added. First came electric ranges with the famous General Electric Calrod cooking units—then electric dishwashers and washing and ironing machines—until today the W. D. Alexander Company distributes in

Georgia (with the exception of a small corner of the northwest portion) the most complete line of modern electric appliances, including electric sinks, garbage disposal units and steel cabinets, and everything to make up the streamlined modern type of electric kitchen.

There is also a complete line of commercial refrigeration equipment, including storage cabinets, display cases, milk coolers, water coolers, room coolers, ice makers, beverage coolers, etc.

"The twelve months just past represent one of the most profitable and exciting years in the history of the electrical industry, with sales increased and markets widened through new services and lowered prices all a part of the record," says Mr. Alexander. However important this achievement may seem, it is nevertheless overshadowed by the prospect immediately ahead. If the gains can be accepted only as starting points, to be interpreted intelligently and followed up, they can be the springboard for appliance business in the months and years to come, on a scale that has never before been approached.

"Such a view of the future is no wishful dream. It is justified by hard facts, such as that the vast expenditures for labor that will be made as the defense program gains momentum means that enormous sums of money will be spent on consumer goods all over the nation. One of the best and most popular forms of such investment are the electrical services which mean freedom from drudgery and bring economy, safety, cleanliness, convenience—and a higher standard of living in their wake. The benefits of this investment accrues to the buyer to such an extent that he is impelled to consider the money spent for electrical appliances as capital investment in the home—and leads to a continuing interest in further similar investments. Electrical living is habit-forming—and General Electric enjoys a continuing position in the appliance field."

One service offered by W. D. Alexander Company, which is appreciated by the homeowner, is the architect, builder and dealer alike, is their kitchen planning service.

Trained men are available to suggest the best and most modern adaptations of electric kitchens, either to new homes or for modernizing old ones.

BERKELEY PUMPS. During the past few years water systems have become one of the major items with General Electric appliance dealers. In 1940 sales were between 200 and 300 per cent greater than those of 1939.

Recent surveys indicate that a very small percentage of the farmers of Georgia have water systems. This gives water systems one of the greatest potentials of any appliance.

In addition to the complete line of Hydro-Jet deep well and shallow well units, Berkeley will soon announce a complete line of turbine pumps for larger applications. With their present line of general purpose centrifugal pumps Berkeley dealers will be able to supply almost any pump requirement within their territory.

To improve their service to the dealers of the southeast Berkeley is now installing machinery to completely manufacture all of their popular units here in Atlanta. Those who have sold Berkeley Water Systems know the superior service Berkeley Pump Corporation has rendered in the past. In 1941 this service will be even better.

Gold Shield's Many Services For Men Only

Free Monogramming of Shirts Among Other Services.

Whether the Atlanta gentleman is the "man of the house," or the "man about town," Gold Shield Laundries have built up a number of services to add to his comfort and good looks. They have endeavored to help Atlanta men achieve the distinction of being well-groomed and immaculate in their attire on every occasion.

The free monogramming of shirts is one of these Gold Shield services for men. They offer several styles and colors of good-looking monograms which they will embroider on the sleeve or above the pocket of a man's shirt at the customer's request, thus individualizing the shirt in a most attractive manner. They are returned to the owner individually cellophane wrapped, to protect them from dust and soil until they are to be worn again.

Men have learned that Gold Shield methods on shirts assure just the right results—immaculate cleanliness, exactly the desired stiffness, with collars that are smooth and comfortable because they are molded to the contour of a man's neck, and with finishing work that gives added luster and smoothness. This beautiful free monogram, in addition to really fine laundering of shirts, constitutes a welcome service and one which men are accepting with alacrity, as evidenced by the number of shirts pouring into the Gold Shield plants now from all sections of the city. (Over 4,000,000 men's shirts were laundered the Gold Shield Way in 1940).

The shirt made by a prominent Atlanta and sent to the President of the United States to be worn at his inauguration was laundered and monogrammed by a Gold Shield laundry.

For Gold Shield uses factory methods in their cleaning department. Having installed the most modern methods and employed experts only, in this department, Gold Shield Laundries are always confident of their rejuvenating process on men's felt hats. So, Mr. Atlanta, you don't have to buy a new hat—only need to see that the ones you already have are cleaned and reblocked often by Gold Shield experts!

To judge by the volume of work turned in at the Gold Shield plants, one gets the idea that Gold Shield is becoming cleaning headquarters for all Atlanta—their trucks, over 200 in number, are patrolling the city, enabling the citizens to join the parade of the well-groomed.

A MAN'S WORLD—It looks like a man's world over at Gold Shield laundries! Pictured above, Mr. George J. Avery, manager of the Troy laundry, one of the Gold Shield group, inspects some men's hats and shirts that have been put in first-class condition at his plant and are now ready for delivery to the customer.

U. S. Royal Master Tires Are 'Tops'

So Says Sam Martin, Who Has Sold Them to Many Motorists.

"Motorists never know the true pleasure of driving until they ride on U. S. Royal Masters," says Sam Martin, owner and manager of the United States Tire and Supply House, at 603 West Peachtree, corner North avenue. "They are designed and engineered in every respect to match the very latest developments of car performance. Royal Masters put your car on four resilient, rubber cushions, that roll smoothly along the highways at all speeds. They make driving easier by their fingertip steering, reduce nerve strain by their quiet, flowing ride, their freedom from buzz and hum, and their unrivaled ability to absorb road inequalities.

"In fact, I have never known a tire like it. The scores that we have sold have made us many friends and customers. People actually come in just to tell how, in an emergency, their Royal Masters is an important contribution to modern motoring safety, and I have staked my local reputation on it."

As all motorists are interested in securing this unusually safe American tire, Mr. Martin invites them to come into his plant on West Peachtree, at North avenue, and be presented with a Royal Master Safety Booklet, as long as they last, containing a digest of the traffic laws and scenic points of interest of every state, or, better still, take a look at a moving picture of these tires in action.

Martin's company has all sizes of U. S. Royal Masters, has them in black and white, and he can fit your passenger car out in a jiffy. Now, for trucks, the tire concern carries a big assortment of Ray-master tires, the same type of excellent tires for heavy duty.

There's another thing that will interest you at the U. S. Tire Supply House. Go out and look over their stock of RCA radios for the home. These are the standard, popular radios you will see in many homes.

AIDS MEDICAL PROFESSION—Here is shown the attractive sales rooms of the Everhart Surgical Supply Company at 493 Peachtree street, from where the medical profession over the southeast is supplied with surgical instruments and other necessary equipment for their work.

Everhart Surgical Supply Company, Aid to Doctors

With a record of a quarter of a century behind it in serving the medical profession with surgical instruments and other necessary equipment for their profession, the Everhart Surgical Supply Company, at 493 Peachtree street, continues its work of services, and is continuing to enjoy a well-deserved patronage.

This firm travels four men, one of whom is resident in Orlando, Fla., and travels continuously making every Florida town every 60 days. It covers Georgia, Florida and South Carolina and sells the highest grade hospitals and doctors in each town, and has always given complete satisfaction to practically all of them.

Laurence Everhart founded the business many years ago. He is the president of the company and continues to give to it his personal attention.

Four many years Mr. Everhart had been registrar of the Atlanta Medical College (now Emory University School of Medicine), in which capacity he made scores and scores of friends with the outgoing classes from that institution, and through his genial friendship for the new and young doctors, Mr. Everhart enjoyed a fine patronage from the beginning of his company. He still enjoys the close friendship of hundreds of these professional men, and is happy to count them among his many patrons.

Carl M. Camp is vice president of the company, having bought an interest in the business on January 1 this year. Mr. Camp has spent many years in the surgical business, being formerly connected with the Crown Surgical Company, of New York City. The company is Georgia agent for the Hamilton Manufacturing Company of Wisconsin, manufacturers of high grade walnut furniture for doctors' offices. It is also agent for the Eastman Kodak Company and has a large trade on X-ray films in the south. One of its outstanding lines is the National Drug Company products, manufacturers of biologicals, ampoules, etc. It is southern distributor and ships to doctors and hospitals from Texas to Virginia.

Well-Known Cabinet Shop Serves Many

Weather-Stripping and Screens Featured by Atlanta Cabinet Shop

Keeping out the cold in winter with proper weather-stripping, and keeping out mosquitoes, flies and other insects in the summer with the right kind of screening, has been the work for many years of the Atlanta Cabinet Shop, located at 591 Edgewood avenue.

This company is owned and managed by J. G. Street and B. M. Street, and is well and favorably known as one of Atlanta's sound and dependable business concerns. Just now, perhaps, is a little late to talk about weather-stripping, though there is to come yet quite a number of cold, winter days. If your home is not comfortable, let this concern place weather-strips for you to keep out the cold. It will give you comfort for many weeks yet.

At the same time it may be a little early to talk about screens for your home to keep out insects of all kind—to make your porch comfortable for the summer. But summer will soon be here, and then you will wish that you had had your home screened. The Atlanta Cabinet Shop does all of this type of work to the satisfaction of hundreds of customers.

This concern also build all types of cabinet work. It has in the past expended much of its time and labor in building all manner of cabinets and shelving work for the kitchen, or for any part of the home, so far as that is concerned. Built-in cabinets, with the right kind of shelving inside, is one of the necessary and most useful articles in the kitchen. Carefully selected lumber, the best of hardware, and workmanship carefully executed, make the cabinets and other woodwork installed by Mr. Street and his force of workmen stand out as among the most conspicuous of cabinet work in the city.

75 VOLUNTEER. CARROLLTON, Ga., Jan. 19.—Since selective service was installed, 75 men have volunteered in Carroll county, 13 have been inducted, and 26 were found acceptable for military service, Draft Board Clerk Stewart Martin said today. William Johnson will leave for Fort McPherson Monday to complete the county's January quota of 20.

U. S. May Help Ecuador Build Island Bases

Deal Declared on Foot for Co-operation Between Countries.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Jan. 19. (P)—A western hemisphere deal in which the United States would co-operate with Ecuador in building air and naval bases in the Galapagos islands and help arbitrate the long-standing border dispute between Ecuador and Peru was reported under consideration tonight.

The Ecuadorian government declined official confirmation or denial, but the story persisted in high political circles. Highly reliable information obtained at the capital at Quito indicated that:

1. The United States wants bases in the Galapagos, off Ecuador's Pacific coast, only if they can be obtained with the complete approval and co-operation of the people of Ecuador.

2. Ecuadorian political leaders believe the people are ready to accept a proposition for bases because they are losing their fear of "Yankee imperialism" and feel that the strategically-located islands would protect Ecuador as greatly as they would the United States.

The islands command the Pacific approach to the Panama canal.

Farm Credit Unit Re-elects Copeland

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. CARROLLTON, Ga., Jan. 19.—The Carrollton Production Credit Association yesterday re-elected Horace G. Copeland, of Bowdon, as president, through a directorate that numbered one new member, Alex Sheinut. Principal address was by C. A. Fillingim, senior credit examiner of the national body, from Columbia, S. C.

The annual stockholders' meeting heard that 1940 saw a larger amount distributed for agricultural and livestock development, but fewer individual loans. More than 900 farmers in Carroll, Haralson, Heard and Paulding counties are served by the agency. More than $15,000 was repaid to the group in 1940.

Z. T. Adams was re-elected vice president; Bruce Michael, secretary, and John T. Baskin, assistant. Mrs. Jesse L. Grice was renamed stenographer. C. M. Stallings and Miss Vivian Collins were continued as field representatives.

State Deaths

MRS. FRANCES GRAY SIGMAN. CONYERS, Ga., Jan. 19.—Mrs. Frances Gray Sigman, 70, died at her home here yesterday. Rites will be held at the residence at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning with Elder R. L. Cook officiating. She is survived by her husband, A. P. Sigman; a daughter, Mrs. E. M. Griffin; a brother, A. M. Gray; a sister, Mrs. B. E. Moon, all of Atlanta; four grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

MATTHEW THOMAS COLLEY. LAGRANGE, Ga., Jan. 19.—Matthew Thomas Colley, 74, farmer of the Pineview community, died this morning. Rites will be conducted at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in a LaGrange funeral chapel, with the Rev. H. A. King officiating. Burial will be in Salem cemetery. A native of Troup county, he had lived here 40 years. He was a member of the Pineview Baptist church and the Account. He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Mrs. James A. Ryers, of Cabellville; one son, E. P. Colley, of LaGrange; one brother, John W. Colley, of Chulsey, and three grandchildren.

Action of U. S. Seen as Factor To Decide War

Former Japanese Commander Holds Stand Decisive in Asia, Europe.

TOKYO, Jan. 19.—(P)—Lieutenant General Kazuma Suzuki today described the United States as the "decisive factor" in both the European and Asiatic conflicts.

He spoke before an assembly honoring Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, the new ambassador to the United States.

"It is rash to conclude that China will crumble at an early date," said General Suzuki, former commander of the Japanese forces in China and an authority on military affairs.

"Because of aid from the United States and Britain," he declared, "I believe China will keep up resistance for a long period."

"I believe also that the European war is a long-term conflict. I believe it will be extremely difficult for Germany to carry out a successful landing campaign on British soil."

"The Balkan situation remains confused," General Suzuki continued, "and the future is unpredictable."

"The decisive factor in both hostilities undoubtedly is the United States."

ON COMMITTEE.

STATESBORO, Ga., Jan. 19.—(P)—Byron Dyer, Bulloch county agent, has been named a member of the national 4-H Club committee, it was announced here yesterday.

Savannah Schools To Remain Closed

SAVANNAH, Ga., Jan. 19.—(P) School authorities and public health officials after conferring here yesterday decided to extend the period during which the public schools of Savannah and Chatham county will remain closed due to the epidemic of influenza.

The schools were closed Tuesday and were scheduled to reopen tomorrow.

Absent from today's conference, due to influenza, were Superintendent of Schools Ormond B. Strong and Dr. C. C. Hedges, city and county health officer.

LARGE PERCENTAGE OF ALAMO CITIZENS STRICKEN

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. ALAMO, Ga., Jan. 19.—Officials here yesterday estimated that one-fourth to one-third of the town's population is ill with influenza. In many families only one member has not become a victim of the disease. Schools have been closed and other steps are being taken to check the spread of the epidemic.

MILD INFLUENZA ATTACKS RICHLAND

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. RICHLAND, Ga., Jan. 19.—Influenza of a mild form has attacked this community, in some instances striking entire families simultaneously. Schools have not been closed, but attendance has been cut and operation handicapped because of illness of students and teachers. So far only a few cases have developed into pneumonia and no deaths have been attributed to the disease, of officers declared.

TO TAKE OFFICE.

ROSWELL, Ga., Jan. 19.—Joe Mansell, newly elected mayor of Roswell, and six councilmen will take office February 3, it has been announced. The new body will hold its first meeting on the same night, when it elects a mayor pro tem, city clerk, city marshal, superintendent of waterworks, and treasurer.

Colds Have Launched A "BLITZKRIEG"!!

Watch Out For Your Family!

NOW with epidemic colds spreading their misery—be careful, be as careful as you can. Do everything possible to help safeguard your family against the "blitzkrieg". There are certain time-tested precautions you can take that may save you and yours a great deal of sickness, worry and expense.

First of all, get plenty of rest, good sound sleep. Eat simple but nourishing food—vegetables and fresh fruits if available. Drink plenty of water and keep elimination regular. Take some exercise every day—preferably outdoors in clean, fresh air. Then let trustworthy Vicks help you.

Use These Two Time-Tested Treatments Whenever Needed

To Help Prevent Many Colds from Developing

At the first sniffle, sneeze or sign of nasal irritation—put a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril right away. This helps to prevent many colds from developing. Because Va-tro-nol is expressly designed to help your natural defenses against colds in the nose and upper throat where most colds start.

NOTE: If by chance you have a head cold, a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol up both sides of the nose should quickly relieve misery. It helps soothe irritation, shrink swollen membranes and clear out mucus-clogged nasal passages. As a result it makes breathing freer and easier and brings you comfort.

TIME-TESTED VICKS VA-TRO-NOL

REMEMBER THIS... Both Va-tro-nol and VapoRub have been thoroughly tested through years of constant use in millions of homes. If the miserable symptoms of the cold are not relieved promptly—or if more serious trouble seems to threaten—call in your family physician right away.

To Quickly Relieve Miseries of Developed Colds

When a cold gets by all precautions and causes muscular soreness or tightness, spells of coughing or irritation in the upper bronchial tubes, relieve such misery the improved Vicks way—with a 3-minute VapoRub Massage.

Massage VapoRub for 3 minutes on IMPORTANT RIB-AREA OF BACK as well as throat and chest. Spread a thick layer over chest and cover up. This more thorough treatment actually increases the important STIMULATING-POULTICE action and PENETRATING-VAPOR action of VapoRub. And makes this famous old family standby work faster and longer to relieve distress of colds.

TIME-TESTED VICKS VAPORUB

Mrs. George, Mrs. Talmadge Talk of Crops

Farms and Furnishings for Mansion Occupy Two Women.

By YOLANDE GWIN.
Constitution Staff Writer.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Georgia's first lady and the wife of the senior senator talked about farming today as Georgia visitors gathered for dinner at the Hotel Raleigh as the guests of the Georgia congressional delegation.

Mrs. Eugene Talmadge, whose first love is "the farm" down in Telfair county, came to the national capital today and swapped agricultural secrets with Mrs. Walter F. George at a table laden with elaborate decorations made of colored candy and carnations. The two matrons were ranking guests at the luncheon which gathered more than 100 prominent Georgians.

Don't Mention Clothes.
Contrary to the usual feminine interest, Georgia's two leading ladies on the political stage didn't mention clothes, although Mrs. Talmadge was wearing a handsome new mink coat. They chatted informally about farm crops, about conditions in Georgia, and about the furnishings in the executive mansion on The Prado where Mrs. Talmadge took up residence last Tuesday for the third time.

Later in the day, Mrs. Talmadge admitted "she nearly froze" as she waited for more than 30 minutes to enter the spacious residence of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Davies where, with Governor Talmadge and their daughter, Mrs. Bill Kimbrough, they attended the reception given for the Georgia delegation and Mrs. Roosevelt and Vice President and Mrs. Wallace.

Worth the Freeze.
At the Davies home, which Mrs. Talmadge says "was worth the freeze, it was so beautiful." Georgia's first lady renewed acquaintance of several years standing with Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, and many other feminine celebrities.

Tonight she says she "thinks she will wear a blue dinner dress" when she attends the dinner at the Carlton hotel with the secretary of war and the secretary of the Navy.

Mrs. Talmadge says as soon as she returns home she is going to "make some plans at the mansion, but it seems so natural to be there it is just like home."

Fort Benning Officer Is Shot In Barracks

Fellow Sergeant Being Held in Death of John J. Mailki.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Jan. 19.—(AP) First Sergeant John J. Mailki, 26, Company B, 20th Engineers, whose home is at Leechburg, Pa., was shot and fatally wounded at the non-commissioned officers' quarters in the company barracks on the Fort Benning Reservation early this morning.

Colonel John R. Eden, post public relations officer, quoted military police as saying they are holding Staff Sergeant Hilton N. Broxton, of the same outfit, pending completion of their investigation of the shooting.

Colonel Eden said military police had advised him that the inquiry, so far, indicated justifiable homicide. Sergeant Broxton apparently having shot in self-defense while being attacked by Mailki.

Broxton, whose home is in Fitzgerald, Ga., told military police, Colonel Eden said he was advised, that he was awakened when someone entered his darkened room. The sergeant said he reached under his pillow and secured a privately-owned revolver and fired as his fellow sergeant rushed at him, the public relations officer said he was told. Military police learned there had been bad feeling between the two men since Friday.

Sergeant Mailki had been in the Army since 1935.

Belle 'Solves' Soldier

By 'You All' for One

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Jan. 19.—(AP)—"Wheah you all from, honey?" hoveed a gangling Ohio private who hoped to impress a pretty girl with his southern drawl at a church social near Camp Shelby, Army training base.

"Oh," said the girl, never batting an "r." "I'm from Ohio, too."

SENATOR'S WIFE GREETED GOVERNOR'S WIFE—Mrs. Walter F. George, right, wife of Georgia's senior senator, welcomed Mrs. Eugene Talmadge, wife of the Governor, to the capital at a pre-inaugural reception. The two women talked chiefly about farms.

Augusta Flyer Fatally Burned As Plane Falls

Charles Gordon Beard Crashes From 100-Foot Altitude.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Charles Gordon Beard, 25-year-old Augusta flyer, was burned to death this morning when a small airplane he was piloting crashed in a cotton field near the Sweetwater community in South Carolina, nine miles from here.

The pilot, flying alone, had taken off from a private air field and had been in the air only a few minutes before the crash occurred. Witnesses said the plane had circled the area and was apparently headed back toward the landing field when it plunged to earth while banking at an altitude of about 100 feet.

The craft flipped over on its back and caught fire. Beard's body was pinned in the wreckage. Salesman for a local bottling company, Beard is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Beard Sr., four sisters and two brothers. Among the sisters is Mrs. Basil Howard, of Asheville, N. C.

15 Axis Planes Downed in Raid On Malta Base

Enemy Hurls Another Spectacular Attack on British Fortress.

VALLETTA, Malta, Jan. 19.—(UP)—Fifteen Axis planes were shot down today in a spectacular mass air attack on this besieged British fortress in the Mediterranean.

Considerable damage was done to civilian property in the attack. Malta's 400-year-old church being bombed for the second time in 48 hours.

Only one British plane was lost in beating off the large-scale attack, which followed three dive-bombing attacks in quick succession on Malta by German "Stukas" late Saturday.

In addition to the 400-year-old church another parish church was damaged in today's raids.

(Fascist quarters in Rome have indicated that the German and Italian air forces have joined in an effort to "wipe out" Malta and sever the Mediterranean at its narrow waistline.)

The shooting down of 15 enemy planes today brought to at least 25 the number of Axis air raiders shot down over Malta in the past two days.

Two British planes were shot down in beating off Saturday's dive-bombing attacks but the pilots were rescued.

ILLUSTRIOUS BOMBED AGAIN, NAZI CLAIM

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Nazi dive bombers delivered another smashing attack on the crippled British aircraft carrier Illustrious at Valletta, Malta, today, and the high command reported the Luftwaffe had extended its Mediterranean operations more than 1,000 miles eastward from Italy to the Suez canal.

Three heavy bombs hit the 23,000-ton Illustrious as she lay in Valletta harbor, DNB, official German news agency said.

Britain To Sell Wheat to Spain

LONDON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The British embassy at Madrid and the Spanish ministry of industry and commerce have signed an agreement for shipment to Spain of quantities of Canadian wheat now stored by Britain in the United States, it was made known tonight.

Under this agreement, said to have been reached yesterday, the first shipment of 15,000 tons will leave Baltimore shortly in Spanish ships.

The contract is regarded as a sign of improved British relations with Spain.

U. S. Expresses Regret Over Flag Incident

German Embassy Advised of Investigation Procedure.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The State Department expressed regret to Germany today over the tearing of a Nazi flag from the German consulate at San Francisco yesterday.

Department spokesmen said a note concerning the incident was received from the German embassy here today.

The department advised the embassy that it was to be presumed an investigation would be conducted by local authorities.

The Swastika was displayed in front of the San Francisco consulate yesterday in observance of the founding of the German Reich in 1871.

A crowd gathered, and during an ensuing demonstration a portion of the flag was ripped and carried away by members of the crowd.

San Francisco police arrested two sailors from United States destroyers. They were identified by a police captain as Harold Sturtevant and E. G. Lackey. On shore leave, both men wore civilian clothes.

The Navy also was investigating, but Lieutenant Marshall Smith, aide to the 12th Naval District commandant, said it would have nothing to say until the "facts are sifted."

At the time of the flag-snatching, both Sturtevant and Lackey were in civilian clothes, on leave from Mare Island Navy Yard hospital and awaiting release from enlistment because of disability.

Sturtevant told interviewers tonight he believed at the time that he was acting to prevent a possible riot.

He said the crowd on the street in front of the building which housed the German consulate was "beginning to get mean."

"The crowd was about ready to rush the building, so I thought it would be a good thing to get that swastika out of sight."

He said he wasn't sure that he would have ripped the flag off had he known it was hanging in front of the consulate.

"I thought it just belonged to somebody that liked the Nazis," he said. "After I climbed down to the pole, Lackey hollered that it belonged to the consulate, but it was too late then, I had already ripped it."

The crowd applauded Sturtevant as he perched himself on the staff which jutted horizontally from the building.

ANOTHER BIG ADVANTAGE FOR YOU IN SLOWER-BURNING CAMELS

THE SMOKE'S THE THING

THE SMOKE OF SLOWER-BURNING CAMELS GIVES YOU EXTRA MILDNESS, EXTRA COOLNESS, EXTRA FLAVOR—AND

than the average of the 4 other largest-selling brands tested—less than any of them—according to independent laboratory tests of the smoke itself

FOR many a year your taste and your tongue told you there was something distinctive about Camels...something you just couldn't seem to find in any other cigarette.

Then scientific research told you Camels were slower-burning. You learned that this slower way of burning meant more mildness, more coolness, and more flavor in the smoke.

Now, new tests—impartial laboratory tests of the smoke itself—confirm still another advantage of Camel's slower burning: Less nicotine in the smoke. Less than any of the four other largest-selling brands tested—28% less than the average!

And when independent laboratory tests reveal such a distinct advantage for one brand of cigarettes over all the others tested—that's worth your looking into—right now!

Try the slower-burning cigarette...try Camels. Compare them...compare them by smoking them. The smoke's the thing!

BY BURNING 25% SLOWER than the average of the 4 other largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them—Camels also give you a smoking plus equal, on the average, to 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

"SMOKING OUT" THE FACTS about nicotine. Experts, chemists—and intricate laboratory machines—analyze the smoke of 5 of the largest-selling brands...find that the smoke of slower-burning Camels contains 28% less nicotine than the average of the other brands tested—less than any of them!

We come to another Inaugural Day . . . we stand in the open doorway of the 38th Presidential term. Behind us lies the impressive corridor of the Past . . . and before us the great, high-ceilinged, unadorned room of the Future . . .

Once more, the United States has chosen Franklin Delano Roosevelt to lead us into the most significant room in the mansion of American history. Today therefore, on his Inaugural, we too, take an oath of office. We glory in accepting the challenge of a supreme national emergency to which we shall give lavishly of our energy, our inspiration, our ideals, our very selves!

Double Protection for Winter Skin

By Winifred Ware.

During the winter the skin needs extra protection. Alternating cold wind and steam heat takes its toll of soft, lovely skin, necessitating special care and attention during the cold weather. The creams and lotions do their share of protection, of course, but have you ever thought of the very important role the foundation and powder play? Both the powder and the foundation act as a protective film for the face and neck.

Face powder is one of the oldest cosmetics and, one might say, one of the most respectable. In the right shade and texture it vastly improves the appearance, giving a smooth, mat finish to the face and neck particularly, if applied properly and if the right foundation is used beneath it.

The foundation, in addition to its skin protecting qualities, makes the skin feel soft, smooth and velvety and should keep make-up looking fresh for hours. Another thing, it must be the harmonizing base for your make-up.

One of the oldest, most reliable firms has just put on the market a charming double package, whose contents assure double protection for the skin. One item is their big, regular box of exquisite face powder. And may we say right here that this is one of the most exquisite powders we have ever used. Its fine texture gives the skin a luxurious feeling, enhancing its beauty. The shades are flattering and many, and match the natural skin tones which is most important, for a powder should leave the skin with a soft, mat finish that looks natural but does not look "powdery." This is the result you get when using this powder and you'll surely be pleased with your new beauty. Its soft, protective film puts the look of spring on your face.

The other article is the foundation lotion which helps keep your skin dewy moist and soft in heat and cold. One of the nicest things about this double-protection package is its double value now. For the price of the powder you get both preparations.

Call Winifred Ware for further information about this package. Write her at The Constitution and enclose a stamped envelope if you do not live in Atlanta.

MARTHA SCOTT.

For Petty Reasons, Many Miss Domestic Happiness

By Caroline Chatfield.

Most adults carry over into maturity plenty of childishness, but usually it's the wrong sort. We lose our playfulness and cling to our pettiness. We lose our faith in fairies and hold on to our fears of goblins. We lose our imagination, our inventiveness, our enthusiasm, but expect to enjoy life as though we had retained them.

Remember how as children we loved to play games. We put everything we had into those games. We played as if it were the last opportunity we should ever have to play and while we were anxious to win, it was the fun of playing that held us in.

We got mad with the playmates and threatened to quit; but we usually stuck to the end. We rowed with those on our side because they made mistakes and we had to pay. We took slackjaw from them for our bonehead plays. We got red in the face, wet with sweat, tired as dogs. We went on and even if we got licked sometimes we knew we'd had fun.

One time a great religiousist remarked that unless we became as little children we couldn't get into heaven. Well it's equally true that we can't have heaven on earth which marriage may be unless we learn to make a game of marriage and play the game as we played other games when we were children.

Every pair starts out to play the game in marriage; yet somehow many lose the playful attitude. The childish sense of glee gives way to a sense of grind. There are young wives who haven't the imagination to see beyond the dishpan. They can't escape from the monotony of three meals a day. There are wives who spend so much time trying to have fun away from home that there's no time left for play and fun at home.

There are money-minded men

Martha Scott Gives Her Opinion of Hollywood's Male Sense of Humor

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 19.—Martha Scott is playing her first smart modern-girl role—in "They Dare Not Love"—since she arrived in Hollywood exactly one year ago today. Her new leading man is George Brent whom she describes as "so solid."

"But he has a deep sense of humor, too," Martha continues, waving at George, who does not know we are discussing him. She compares him with Cary Grant, her lover and husband in "Howards of Virginia." "Cary is more effervescent on the surface, but very serious underneath. His film comedy is a business with him."

"How about William Holden?" I ask the girl who loved him in "Our Town."

"He has the biggest sense of humor of the lot," replies Martha, "and he's the most ambitious of them all. D'ye see that male over there?" She points to 6-year-old Richard Lyon. "Now, there's an actor for you. At the end of our last 'take,' he turned to George and me, and said, 'was I good?'" Master Lyon, the adopted son of Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon, refers to himself as "Richard the Lyon-hearted." He'll have to be in Hollywood.

Miss Scott now brings the conversation to her own private-life leading man—her husband, Carlton Alsop. "My only fear is," she tells me, "that his work may one day take him to New York (he's a radio producer). I couldn't bear Hollywood without him. I just couldn't bear it."

Martha had hoped to appear in a Broadway stage play this coming October. "But I guess I'll have a baby instead!" Next film for Martha is "Strange Victory." And she can be viewed currently in "Cheers for Miss Bishop" in which, as a woman of 70, "I look exactly like my grandmother."

Mickey Rooney is being coached for his high school exams by "Polly Benedict" (Kathryn Grayson) in the latest "Andy Hardy" flicker. It's the funniest scene in the film—and the hardest. For three hours Mickey has hung over his desk, having knowledge poured into him by the two women who love him. "Indicate," says Kathryn Grayson, "which sentences contain—(1) Predicate adjectives; (2) An infinitive phrase used as an appositive; (3) A subordinate conjunction; (4) A compound personal pronoun used reflexively." There is nothing phony about Rooney's reply—a groan.

Mickey is an utter and complete wreck. Each time he "blows up" he grabs his hair, cries a little, and shouts "pa-thetic." Once or twice he says something a little stronger, but we won't go into that now. At the beginning of each "take" he has to gulp a glassful of water. So far the scene has been taken fifty times, and Mickey is rapidly turning into water. It is hard to realize that this drowning wreck is the 1940 box-office champion and was ditto for 1939. And surely will repeat in '41—what with "Boys Town" and this current "Andy Hardy" (it sounds the best to date).

Ann Rutherford says "hello" and, "it's so strange to be 'Polly Benedict' after being a married woman in my other series ('Keeping Company')," but it's nice to wear young dresses and flat heels again. The Hardy series has proved a mixed blessing to the petite Miss Rutherford. "It's given me a nice long job, but—until 'Keeping Company,' stopped me from getting some others that were good. For instance, 'We Who Are Young' was meant for me until someone said, 'heavens, we can't allow Polly Benedict to have twins!'" Lana Turner had them instead.

Jean Arthur prepares for a scene in "The Devil and Miss Jones," she pulls up her stockings, straightens her blouse, pats a curl into place, calls for a glass of water, and clears her throat. "Action," says Director Sam Wood. And Jean does and says—nothing. It's a silent "take"—showing fear, rebellion and relief. And if you think it's easy—try to do it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Raw Sugar.

Is "raw" sugar more desirable than refined white sugar or is it better than the ordinary "brown" sugar to be found in groceries. I notice that refined white sugar gives me discomfort or pain, but the brown does not. (T. B. C.)

Answer—Raw sugar retains much more of the natural mineral elements present in sugar cane. It is perfectly wholesome food to use in place of refined white sugar, if you wish.

Natural and Synthetic.

Is fish liver oil with viosterol more beneficial than the plain oil? Just what is viosterol?

(Miss O. J. M.)

Answer—Viosterol, irradiated ergosterol, is synthetic vitamin D. Fish liver oil contains natural vitamin D. There is no difference between them, practically, except that synthetic vitamin D in neutral oil is almost tasteless. Ergosterol is a fat-like substance present in many foods and in the skin. Irradiation of ergosterol with ultraviolet light converts it into viosterol.

Salt.

My sister wrote that a friend of hers who has spent hundreds of dollars on dentists and doctors and obtained no benefit began using a mixture of one ounce cream of tartar, one ounce saleratus, one-half ounce common salt to brush her teeth and gums daily, and now her pyorrhea is practically cured and her teeth have become solid and beautiful. (Mrs. O. J. M.)

Answer—Dentists offer advice using plain salt to brush teeth and gums. The other ingredients are not advisable, I think.

Quinine for Night Cramps.

Having suffered much from cramps in legs at night, I was interested in your article telling of the quinine treatment. I began taking three grains of quinine sulfate (capsule) morning, noon and night, and the first night did not have a single cramp—for the first time in months. I continued taking the capsules for two weeks, and had practically no more trouble. It is now a week since I stopped. No more cramps. (D. U.)

Answer—Thank you. Quinine seems efficacious in many such cases.

Wood Alcohol.

Is it harmful to inhale wood alcohol fumes, where wood alcohol is sprayed on material to clean it? (F. W.)

Answer—Yes, it is dangerous to use wood alcohol in that way. Grain alcohol would be safer. Blindness is one of the hazards of wood alcohol poisoning.

MASSAGE • BATHS • EXERCISE

Keeping Slim Is Another Problem

By Ida Jean Kain.

Someone is supposed to have complained to Billy Sunday that his conversions were not permanent—and the retort to have been: "Neither is a bath!" Well, neither is a diet!

Once you are slim, you will have to hang on to a few of the principles of right eating in order to stay slim. If you go back to your old ways, you will pick up the 10 or so lost pounds faster than you lost them!

Slimming down should have given you a good start toward changing your food habits, however, and when slim food habits are well established you won't have to worry about your weight.

In the meantime, here is a weight-stabilizing trick that will help you to control the scales without counting the calories too closely. You are not apt to overeat of the protective foods and you don't have to keep an eye on those. But you may be inclined to overeat on bread, potatoes and desserts; so make it a strict rule to limit yourself to one out of the three. When you have bread, leave off the potatoes and the dessert—other than fresh fruit—for that meal. Or, if you would rather have the dessert, skip the other two.

Keeping slim doesn't take all the fun out of eating. You will find it twice as easy to keep your new figure as it was to get it! To reduce you had to draw on the stored fat for at least one-third of your energy every day, but when your weight is down you can have the one-third calories or more which have been omitted from your diet. You merely refrain from overeating.

Of course, the 10 pounds' loss during the last three weeks may be only a drop in the scales for you. You may be a long way from slim. In that case, continue to follow the protective menus—they contain everything you need, with the exception of calories, and you can repeat the diet with perfect safety. But the more weight you have to lose, the more careful you must be to include daily the stipulated amounts of lean meats, eggs, skim milk, fruits, vegetables and whole grain bread. To assure an abundance of the protective elements, you must also use a supplementary vitamin concentrate. And—no other rule: Do not average a loss of more than two pounds per week. In some cases it would be better to restrict the loss to one pound per week.

Send for the Reducer's Ten Commandments and establish the habits that will help you to keep slim without dieting. Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, care of The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga., and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

MY DAY: All the Best Hopes For Today's Visitors

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

NEW YORK, Friday.—I left Washington yesterday noon, and so poor Mrs. Helm, with her numberless questions on Inauguration Day procedures, was left with no one to turn to. I felt very guilty but, on the other hand, what is not arranged by now, will probably not be arranged. I can only hope that somehow or other, all will be in the places they want to be, and that they will see the people they want to see on Monday next.

During the morning, before I left, I was very happy to see an old friend, Mrs. William Phillips, for a few minutes. She will leave next month to join her husband in Italy and was in Washington to be with her daughter, who was given the Croix de Guerre by the French ambassador for the work which she did in France under Miss Anne Morgan.

Someone told me last night that they did not think we could face the conditions which the French and the English are meeting with similar calm. All I could think of was some of my young acquaintances, who have been serving in France and in England with as great an apparent calm and devotion as any of the French or English people.

Yesterday morning, two members of the Field Foundation of Oklahoma came to tell me a little about their work. They are helping to rehabilitate prisoners and start them out with a better chance in the world. I hope this foundation will point the way to much better work than has ever been done in this field before.

The Junior League of Baltimore, Md., is carrying on another piece of rehabilitation work, which I think should be watched in all parts of the country. In connection with Johns Hopkins and the University hospital, they operate two curative workshops. Rehabilitation work is done for orthopaedic cases and there is an opportunity today for their teachers and trained workers to go to England and to help out with the work there for civilian as well as military casualties. There are many people over there who will have to learn again how to handle themselves with a physical handicap which will be with them for the rest of their lives.

Last night I attended the dinner given for Mr. Adolph Berle and myself by a group of architects who are interested in housing, and who gave this dinner in the interests of a magazine called "Common Sense." This magazine, published by Mr. Alfred Bingham and Mr. Seldman Rodman, is trying to strengthen and uphold the social objectives gained during the past few years. While they keep their pages open to many shades of opinion, they intend to bring as much weight as possible to bear on the side of liberal thinking and constructive criticism.

Play Guitar Music With Ease

Lots of attention rewards the boy or girl who can play the guitar! A gay tune just fills the late evenings round the fireplace and when you can accompany a song you're always sure of a warm welcome.

You can easily teach yourself the guitar at home. Simple diagrams and directions show you how to play solos, how to accompany the gang's singing with simple chords.

Easily, too, you learn to read music, find the notes on your fingerboard. Before you know it you're making a big splash playing solos!

Our 24-page instruction book, "Teach Yourself to Play the Guitar," describes the technique of playing, correct fingering, where to find notes on the guitar fingerboard. Explains rudiments of music. Tells how to play melodies and accompaniments. Includes table of chords, four popular tunes arranged as solos. Book is 9½ by 12 inches.

Send 15 cents in coins for our instruction book, TEACH YOURSELF TO PLAY THE GUITAR, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address and the name of instruction book.

Woman's Quiz

Q. What is birds' nest soup?

A. It is made of the nest of a species of swift native to the Malay Archipelago. It is composed of a substance secreted by special glands and is considered a delicacy in China. The nests are worth $10 to $15 a pound.

Q. When should one make a suit response to partner's opening one-trump bid in Contract Bridge?

A. If the hand contains 1-2 to 1 honor trick and a five-card bid-able suit, with less than 1-2 honor tricks or more, raise the no-trump bid.

Q. Are different varieties of tea made from different plants?

A. No. There are several species, of which two have commercial value, one indigenous in India and the other in China. Variations come from the way they are cured.

Q. How can eggs be prevented from spreading when they are poached?

A. Stir the boiling water in one direction, and drop the egg in the middle of the swirl.

Q. What may I substitute for lavender flowers to kill musty odor in a clothes closet?

A. Cloves make an excellent substitute.

Q. Of what is liverwurst made?

A. About 20 per cent pork liver, the rest being heads, tongues, skins and hearts.

Q. What kind of thread should be used to sew velvet?

A. If silk thread is used for basting as well as the final sewing, it will not mark the velvet.

Q. What are the characteristics of good, fresh fish?

A. The gills should be bright red, the eyes bright and full and the flesh firm and springy.

Have you a household problem to solve? Write your question clearly, sign your name and address, enclose a three-cent postage stamp and mail to the Woman's Editor of The Constitution, 1013 12th Street, Washington, D. C. for a personal reply. Don't telephone: write as directed.

Atlanta D. A. R. Plans Luncheon

Plans were announced at the January meeting of Atlanta Chapter, D. A. R., for the Martha Washington luncheon to be held at Craigie House, February 22, at 1 o'clock. This annual affair is one at which members may entertain their friends.

The luncheon committee on arrangements includes Mrs. John W. Rice, regent; Mrs. Mark Cooper Pope, first vice regent; Mrs. Asa G. deLoach, second vice regent, and Mrs. Frances Brown Chase, chairman of the executive board. Mrs. John E. Wells will be in charge of the decorations, with Mrs. Harry C. Malone as co-chairman; Miss Hazel Kirk, chairman of linen; Miss Lillean Tidwell, co-chairman.

Reports of officers and chairmen were given at the meeting. The state regent, Mrs. Thomas C. Mell, spoke of plans for the state D. A. R. conference to be held in Griffin, March 26-28.

The delegates and alternates elected to represent the chapter include Miss Willie Fort Williams, Mrs. W. H. Shaw and Mrs. E. Rivers, delegates; Mrs. Mark Cooper Pope, Mrs. Charles Davis, Mrs. James L. Logan, Mrs. Robert H. Perkins, Mrs. Lawrence McCord, Mrs. Asa G. deLoach, Mrs. Harry C. Malone and Miss Sarah Hoshall, alternates. The regent announced the appointment of Miss Evelyn Knowles as page and Mrs. R. E. Latta to serve on the house committee for the National D. A. R. congress to be held in Washington, D. C. in April.

The Junior American Citizens' Club, with Miss Dorothy Waldman, sponsored by Atlanta chapter, held flag-raising exercises at the Atlanta Boys' Club recently. The flag was the gift of Mrs. John E. Dance, a chapter member. W. W. Woolfolk, executive director of the club, and Henry C. Heinz, president, accepted the flag. Dr. R. C. Stauffer gave the invocation and Dr. Ryland Knight was the speaker. There are 66 members of the boys' club, 53 from the Hillside Cottage Club and the Rev. Samuel Francis Smith Club.

Copies of "Museum Information," a booklet on old china, glass and silver, by Mrs. Robert Hunt, of Rhodes Hall, garnette library and the chapter house. Mrs. James L. Logan, chairman for Red Cross, reported 60 hours of work by members. Memorial exercises were held for three members of the resolutions for Mrs. John S. Cohen being read by Mrs. J. L. Logan. Mrs. Frances Brown Chase read those for Mrs. George McMichael and Mrs. McWhorter Milner for Mrs. Hal Hentz. Mrs. Frances Brown Chase, chairman, brought the report from the executive board and Miss Alberta Malone announced the scrapbook up to date.

The program for the afternoon was sponsored by the junior committee, Mrs. Esmond Walthall, chairman. Miss Sarah Hoshall introduced Professor Peter Poroshnikov, who gave a talk on "Americanism." Mrs. Jules Felton presented a group of songs. At the close of the program tea was served by Mrs. W. E. Beckham, chairman, and members of the hospitality committee.

MRS. MILTON B. TRAVIS.

Miss Rosa Kingloff Weds Milton Travis at Synagogue

Miss Rosa Kingloff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kingloff, became the bride of Milton B. Travis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Travis, yesterday afternoon at the Ahavath Achim synagogue.

Rabbi Harry Epstein officiated at 2 o'clock, and a musical program was presented by S. Goldstein. Gladioli were used in effective arrangement against a background of palms and ferns.

The bride and groom were unattended, the former being given in marriage by her father. She was becomingly gowned in a Copenhagen blue wool crepe street dress. Her accessories were wine and her only ornament was a pearl necklace. Her flowers were white orchids.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Kingloff were hosts at an informal reception in the vestry room. The table was overlaid with a cloth of Irish linen and lace. Miss Sallie Travis, cousin of the groom, presided at the punch bowl, and Miss Mildred Kingloff assisted in entertaining.

Mrs. Kingloff, mother of the bride, was becomingly gowned in a model of blue chiffon velvet with matching accessories. Her flowers were talisman roses.

During the afternoon Mr. Travis and his bride left for a wedding trip to the mountains of Tennessee. The bride traveled in a model of Kelly green trimmed with Persian lamb. Upon their return they will reside at 800 Greenwood avenue, N. E.

Among out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Travis, of New York, and Bridgeport, Conn.; Mrs. Milton Pink, of New York; J. I. Kingloff, of Montgomery, Ala., and New York, N. Y.; Jack Travis, of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. William X. Travis, of Hartford, Conn.

Tallulah Matrons To Give Tea at Driving Club Tuesday

The co-operation committee, the entertainment committee, and the dental committee. It is the first time in the history of the circle that three committees have entertained together for their members.

The tea table will be overlaid with an imported lace cloth and centered with a silver epergne filled with flowers. Silver candelabra will hold white tapers. Pouring tea will be Mrs. Keith A. Quarterman, president of the circle; Mrs. Charles T. Pottinger and Mrs. James Frazer, past presidents.

Plans for the work to be carried on by the three hostess committees will be announced by their chairman.

Count de Nove To Lecture Tonight at Piedmont Club

A prominent visitor in Atlanta is Count Jehan de Nove, a member of a distinguished French family, who is the guest of Charles Loridan, French consul here, and Mrs. Loridan at their residence on Pace's Ferry road.

Count de Nove's visit here is being sponsored by Alliance Française and he will be presented in a lecture this evening at the Piedmont Driving Club. He speaks on "Experiences of a French Officer with the B. E. F. at Flanders and at Dunkerque." His lecture will be given in French, and his free and easy style, penetrating insight and magnificent sense of humor have endeared him to countless American audiences. Earlier in the day, members of the Alliance will entertain him at a luncheon at the Driving Club. Reservations may be made by call-

Mr. and Mrs. John Melvin Henson Jr. are pictured as they left the Central Presbyterian church following their marriage which was a recent event of interest. Mrs. Henson is the former Miss Catherine McCalley; daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lanford McCalley Jr. The couple left for a motor trip for their honeymoon and will reside in Cazenovia, N. Y.

Wesleyan Group Plans Meeting

Plans for two scholarship contests will be announced at the meeting of the executive board of the Atlanta Wesleyan Club, to be held Wednesday at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Fred Cole, 53 Fifteenth street. Mrs. W. W. Davison, president of the club, will have charge of the meeting, at which plans for Dormitory Day and other spring projects will be discussed.

Prizes totaling over $1,000 are being offered winners of the scholarship contests, one to take the form of a competitive examination, the other a historical essay. Any girl enrolled in regular attendance in the senior class of any accredited high school is eligible for either contest, applications for which should be mailed before midnight of February 15, 1941.

The competitive examination will be held March 15, the place to be announced by the school attended by respective contestants. Winners will be announced on Dormitory Day at Wesleyan College on April 19. The historical essay, to be obtained from American history, must not be less than 1,500 words in length. For application blanks and further information, interested students are requested to write the dean's office at Wesleyan College in Macon.

ing Mrs. Joe A. Brown at Hemlock 1701-R, or Miss Madeleine Groleu at Hemlock 0491-J.

The distinguished Frenchman was liaison officer with the British army, and after Dunkerque, escaped to North Africa with the French colonial troops. There he obtained permission for his present lecture tour of this country.

He owns one of the oldest and most famous of the French castles, the Chateau Abbaye du Lys, near Fontainebleau, built by an early French queen, Blanche de Castille, in about the fourteenth century.

Count de Nove is a well-known lecturer and an authority on the English language. He is also a patron of art, being a charter member of the National Society for the Preservation of French Art.

For the benefit of other interested Atlantans Count de Nove will be presented again on Tuesday at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. John M. Slaton under the auspices of St. Cecilia's Circle. He will speak in English on "French Gardens," his lecture to be illustrated by colored shades.

Miss Davis and Mr. Barbour Will Marry on February 22

Gordon Street Baptist church will form the setting on February 22 for the marriage of Miss Selma Carolyn Davis, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James William Addison Davis, to Bruce Barbour.

The impressive ceremony will be solemnized at 4:30 o'clock by Dr. Thomas F. Harvey, who will perform the ceremony before a gathering of friends and relatives. A musical program will be presented by Miss Marietta Faust, organist, and Fred Barnes, soloist.

James William Addison Davis will give his daughter in marriage, and William Jacob Pyron will be best man for Mr. Barbour.

Miss Louise Davis will be her sister's maid of honor, and Mrs. P. J. Roberts Jr., of Pendergrass, another sister of the bride-elect, will be matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Adalyn Davis, a sister of the future bride, and Miss Nelda Wiley, a cousin of the bride-elect.

Ushers will include Al W. Dahlberg, Estil Rowden, Walter W. Still, George W. Caldwell, Forrest Gee Jr., Forrest P. Ryan, and Royal Barbour, brother of the groom-elect.

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Davis, parents of the bride-elect, will entertain at a reception for members of the wedding party, the immediate families, and a few close friends of the couple.

Many pre-nuptial affairs are being planned for the betrothed couple. Among those who will entertain are Mrs. J. Forrest Gee Jr., Mrs. Forrest P. Ryan, Miss Christine Westmoreland, Miss Estell Chaffin, and others.

Power-Clark Wedding Plans And Parties Are Announced

Miss Edna Power and her fiancé, Emory Wilcox Clark, of Knoxville, Tenn., have selected February 1 as the date for their wedding, which will be solemnized at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the First Baptist church. Dr. O. P. Gilbert will officiate and Mrs. William Thogmartin, of Stockbridge, and Miss Avis Bea Geis will present the musical program.

The bride-elect will be given in marriage by her father, Charles Marvin Power. Mrs. Frank Geis will be her sister's matron of honor, and Jim Curley, of West Point, will attend the groom-to-be as best man.

Chic Williams, of Chattanooga, and H. B. Grace, of Clarksville, will serve as ushers.

Prior to her marriage Miss Power will be feted at a round of social affairs. Among these is the miscellaneous shower at which Mrs. Shepard Lewis will be hostess tomorrow at her home on Piedmont road.

Misses Helen and Ruth Rodgers will give a bridge party Wednesday at their home on Peachtree street for the bride-elect, and on Saturday she will be complimented at the luncheon to be given by Miss Nancy Hamilton in the Spanish room of the Henry Grady hotel.

Miss Power will again be complimented on Sunday at the trouseau tea to be given by her mother.

Teachers' Club.

The Second and Third Grade Teachers' Club will entertain for principals and supervisors with a tea at Druid Hills Golf Club on Monday, January 20, at 3 o'clock.

Dr. Willis A. Sutton will speak. The hostesses will be Slaton, Fair, Grant Park, Georgia Avenue, and Crew schools.

A Story of the American
White-Collar Girl

INSTALLMENT XLIII.
I sit there while this is going on, and she explains that I have natural wistful purple in my eyelids so I don't need much beauty shadow, and that woman's beauty must be co-ordinated to the occasion, the simple discretion of the Killarney would be all right for me in church or on a Thursday, but for the competitive hours of evening maybe I might soar as high as the Olympia. One final caution, she says: If you think you're going to do any crying, better use the waterproof mascara. But clients of the Delphine De-taille treatment should have no occasion for weeping.

Oh yeah?
I'm wondering if anybody's there from Darby Mill, but at least by the time Delphine gets through with me they wouldn't recognize me.

Delphine went back to N. Y. after her lecture and left me to do demonstrating at the store for a couple weeks. It's good I was busy, of course I had to train the girl who was going to take over the work. Delphine said I should take a room at a hotel, I guess she was right, I was too tired to commute out to Mac's in Tioga. But it's a funny feeling living in a hotel in your own home town, it's not good for you. That's probably what's wrong with a lot of us, living sort of hotel hideaway with no front door onto fresh air. The whole world ought to have home-town feeling. There's thousands of people right here on Riverside I bet never even saw a back yard and think Pekinese are real dogs.

It's more than your skin that gets dried up.
I had to send a report to Delphine every night on the day's business, but there was one thing I didn't mention by name. Mrs. Pingry, the cosmetics buyer, tells me she's made a special appointment for a very important customer. I must please shoot the works on this dame because she's readying herself to make a killing at the assembly, and if we sell her the line and get her chattering about the personalized service then we're right inside the Holy City. Naturally most of us contented crows had been in the middle-aged bracket; the kids are too sure of themselves to worry about crepey cheekbones, and I supposed this would be another Main Line veteran. Then Mrs. Pingry happens to say if we take this customer into camp we have the whole Younger Set in the bag. Just to be polite, I ask "Who is Blessed Damozel?" Of course it's Ronnie Gladwyn.

Waterproof mascara for her, is my first thought.
Of all the things. That certainly put me on a two-way stretch going over Ronnie to brighten her up for what I couldn't have. Maybe I was a bit hard on her in my mind, but in a way she was a nice kid. Oh she's no ball of fire and I wouldn't be surprised she has trouble with her skin if she hunts the fox too much. She might get that wholesome tweed-skirt Wayne-Devon-and-Paoli look. You can't use your face as a windshield the way a horse can. She's got a nice natural wave to her hair, but not much sparkle to it, that off-color between mud-blonde and brunette. The geranium lipstick she was using made her mouth look even bigger than it needed to. What she didn't know about make-up would fill Saks-Fifth Avenue. Her manners were so pleasant it would be hard to know was she really dumb or not; of course all those vintage Main Liners pride themselves to be just lovely with the lower classes as long as they don't go beyond their proper station, which would be probably Overbrook. I could have sold her anything, what a chance to load her up with the wrong tones and an overnight cream that would cackle up that puss like a nutmeg grater. I just once and a while, with my hands on her neck, I could have snatched out a tonsil or two. Matter of fact I gave her the best I knew how, and if she follows instruc-

SYNOPSIS.
This is the story of Kitty Foyle, the all-American white collar girl. She is telling it to herself, musing as most of us do sometimes, as it is all very confidential and true. As she looks back over her 28 years she realizes that she has LIVED the last 10 of it. Lived her lifetime. While all the years before she had been preparing for the last 10. From her Pennsylvania Dutch mother came her stubborn courage, from her Irish father came her humor, her sentiment and her dreams. Dear old "Pop" with his whisky, his rheumatism and his cricket! It was Pop who had really taught her what it was all about and he had taught Wyn cricket. It was through Pop and his cricket Wyn had come along. Wyn and all that love could mean. But now Kitty is in Illinois with her Aunt and Uncle. Her horizons are wider, but somehow the folks are narrower than Pop, even to a small girl just beginning to grow up. However, she and Molly, her pal, are making the best of this painful process. But now Kitty, after attending school in the Midwest, from the home of her Aunt and Uncle, is back home in Philly for her vacation. She and her Pop are at the shore. Kitty is back in the Midwest preparing to go to Prairie College, where she went to high school from the home of her Aunt and Uncle but Pop had her own ideas. She and her Pop's college education down to 10 days. Just now she is starting in as Wyn's secretary. When the magazine he was publishing folded in the crash of '29, they own private paradise didn't, but it wilted a bit under the social lights of Wyn's Main Line high society background and family. To escape from this she plans a visit to Molly in old working in Chicago. But Wyn follows. . . .

tion those pores round her nose won't show up till it won't matter anyway. But it's not what I'd call a really good skin and I guess Bailey's Beach has't helped it.

She'd heard about the Olympia, like everybody, and of course she wanted some. She said she was going to wear a very swish job for the assembly, gold net over white satin and insertions of green lace on the skirt. I wasn't so sure about the green lace; sounded to me like it would pick up the color of her eyes which had more than enough green in them already. Still and all that wasn't my department. Nobody in her senses offers too much advice about a woman's dress after she's already picked it out. I toned down her lipstick department, it was killing whatever she had in the way of eyes. A touch more orange would bring out the gold in them. I imagine they'd be really good by candlelight. But I wouldn't sell her any Olympia. I'm still kind of proud about that. She begged hard, the kid had a notion it was just what she needed, but I argued her out of it.

In the first place it was certainly too subtle for a wallpaper effect like gold net and white satin, and it wouldn't have the authority she would need after the cloakroom Clover Clubs had worn off. But the important thing was, why should I want to hurt Wyn? The minute he got a whiff of Olympia he'd think of nothing but Kitty. I knew what it meant to him. It meant twilight high up in that hotel and bell chimes floating outside, and it meant the smell of my hair when we were dancing, and maybe just nibbling his tooth on the lobe of my ear while Giono was turned the other way behind the bar. He said it made him think of his nostrils, and I said that was as good thinking as he was likely to do. Poor blessed baby, men like to think they're so amorous and if they knew the half of it, they're really so helpless.

I guess Ronnie wanted to be smart by quantity production, but it don't come that way. That's just sh-sh-sh things that would be smart if there weren't so many of them. To let her have Olympia would be selling what's not for sale, memories of our own. I gave her the Killarney. It's got a delicate naive quality that a girl ought to need after going through the debauched market and it might be a novelty at the Bellevue. As Delphine says, it's discreet enough to wear in a cathedral. The girl was going to church, wasn't she?

I took a lot of trouble and she was grateful. She asked if she might have my name so she could come and consult me again. I said we weren't allowed to give our names.

I told Polly, the girl I was training, never to let Miss Gladwyn use the Olympia, it had just the wrong wave-length for her type. Polly made a note of it on the Customers' Histories file and said it's wonderful Miss Foyle, how do you get to know these things by intuition? I said it's a kind of instinct, you've got to develop it.

Of course it's no use to think you won't meet people in Philly. All the shopping that amounts to anything socially is along those few blocks on Chestnut and Walnut, and sure enough one day when I went out for lunch I ran into Wyn. There had to be somebody about it, he was standing by the curb scraping one of those beautiful brown shoes on the edge. He said "Kitty this is very embarrassing, I walked on some chewing gum, I can't imagine where."

"What were you doing on Market Street?" I asked, and he said "Kitty, you're adorable!"

"Talking to me is good for you," I told him. "It's a pity we can't have about fifty years of it."

It was just before I was going back to N. Y. and I had my work pretty well under control. Of course I didn't tell him I'd met Ronnie, and I was glad I played so square in the cosmetic crisis because even while we were kidding I could see the black centers of his eyes get bigger and I knew we were going to have one more time to ourselves. I had built up so many things I couldn't tell him, it was good to be able to come clean about one thing, that was that. I loved him. It's sweet to remember how the last time I saw him we were all by ourselves and no tally-ho from the sidelines by Parry Berwyn. That night he took me up to the Rising Sun dance hall and got them to play our favorite tunes. "But we don't have to wait till the sun rises," he said. I was happy though that he didn't seem very certain where we could go after that. It's sweet to remember and yet with Wyn and me everything always was so natural that the details vanish away. It's queer, when there's so many ways of loving a person you seem to lay so much stress on just one.

Last thing he ever said, "Good-bye darling, take care of yourself."

Take care of yourself, Wyn, I can't do it any more.
Wyn used to say it is all right to do so any day, like "Is it all right about us just for a few minutes?" I loved him terribly when he said, "Is it all right?" But it's no use telling yourself what you're not going to think about. You think about it that much more. Probably Delphine knew that. She could see how I was empty inside, like one of those crabs you find on the beach. She celebrated my 21st birthday by giving me a raise and sending me to do demonstration in Chicago.

I guess there weren't many people getting raises in January '32. That was about the time they said grass would be growing in the streets; it wasn't likely, too many people were pounding them looking for work. But there won't never be a slump in business that makes people feel pleased about themselves. I notice how you'll take medicinal advice from the hairdresser quicker than from most doctors, because he knows a woman who looks attractive feels healthy right away. Nicolaï says I can do with less salt on account of I've got some blood pressure.

Continued Tomorrow.

11:05—Teddy Powell's Orchestra, WAGA.

THEATER—Merle Oberon and Gene Awtry will act together for the first time when the Radio Theater presents them in "The Cowboy and the Lady" over WGST at 8 o'clock tonight.

The story of the wealthy girl who meets a rodeo cowboy will be presented by Cecil B. DeMille.

Gene Awtry is among the top 10 movie stars in boxoffice-draw, according to a recent poll movie exhibitors made by a movie trade paper.

In "The Cowboy and the Lady" he will be making his first appearance in a full-hour radio drama, though he is heard regularly over the air on his Sunday program.

His cast as Stretch Willoughby, a roving rodeo performer, who meets up with Mary Smith, played by Merle Oberon, when playing Palm Beach, Fla. Mary conceals her true identity from Stretch by telling him she's a lady's maid supporting a drunken father and four small sisters.

CONCERT—"Annie Laurie," old-time favorite, will be Margaret Speaks' first solo when she makes a return appearance on the Monday Concert program over WGST at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The soprano also will sing Melio's "Kerry Dance" and "Il Bacio" by Ardit.

Alfred Wallenstein will present the orchestra in the Overture to Offenbach's "Orpheus" and Dvořák's Slavonic Dance No. 8.

TELEPHONE HOUR—The old story of "The Low-Backed Car" will be presented in music by James Melton during the Telephone Hour over WSB at 7 o'clock.

Soprano Francis White's featured number will be "Mi Chiamano Mimmi" from Puccini's "La Bohème" and she will be joined by Melton in "La Golondrina."

The tenor also will sing "The Lost Chord" and the chorus will be heard in "Londonderry Air." Donald Voorhees will direct the orchestra in Ravel's "Pavane" and "Anitra" from "Peer Gynt" Suite by Grieg.

MUSIC—The Contented cast will salute the food industry during the program over WSB at 9 o'clock tonight under the direction of Maestro Percy Faith. Orchestral numbers will include the "Cielito Lindo," "Turkey in the Straw" and "The Ride of the Valkyrie." The chorus will be featured in "To Ra Ra Boom De Ay" and "A Wild Rose." Baritone Robert Gately will sing "Home on the Range" and "Lullaby, Lady." Louise King's solo will be "We Could Make Such Beautiful Music" and Brahms' "Cradle Song."

The Gentleman—

From Monroe ... From Candler ... From Effingham ...

Senator Ed L. Almand, Monroe, 27th District.

Ed L. Almand has attended all of the last five sessions in the house. Then came the time for his district to be represented in the senate so the Monroe funeral director ran and won. Now he's in Atlanta and he's interested in paying debts without raising taxes and he wants to do everything to support the Governor's program. Jovial Mr. Almand says farming is his hobby. Sixty-one years old, the solon has three children, seven grandchildren.

Representative F. H. Sills, of Candler county.

Hon. F. H. Sills, a Candler county preacher, is in the house of representatives for specific purposes. In 1913 and 1914 he was a lobbyist and lead the movement for the formulation of Candler county. Now he is in the house with two definite objectives in mind. First, he wants the purchasing of automobile tags to be made through the county tax collector's office. Secondly, he wants fishing and hunting licenses issued by county ordinaries.

Eighty-five-year-old J. W. Reiser, an old-timer in the general assembly, is back again this year. He served for the eight years preceding 1920, then again in 1937-38 and is back again. He is one of the four persons remaining who helped launch a division of land to create Candler county. He was on hand for the fight for creation of that county and now is satisfied to sit back and take things as they come. He wants to promote some bills for the good of his town and county.

TO YOU WHO INHALE

THESE FACTS ARE VITAL!

All smokers inhale—sometimes—with or without knowing it.

When you do, it's plain, there's increased exposure to irritation.

So—choose your cigarette with care!

There is a vital difference. Eminent doctors reported their findings—in authoritative medical journals:

ON COMPARISON—FOUR OTHER LEADING BRANDS AVERAGED 235% MORE IRRITANT

THAN THE STRIKINGLY CONTRASTED PHILIP MORRIS... AND WHAT'S MORE—

THE IRRITATION WAS FOUND TO LAST MORE THAN FIVE TIMES AS LONG!

Remember—next time you buy a pack of cigarettes—

Philip Morris provides truest smoking pleasure—

Complete enjoyment of the world's finest tobaccos—

With no worry about throat irritation!

So—especially if you inhale—

It's plain common sense to...

CALL FOR PHILIP MORRIS!
REAL PLEASURE — REAL PROTECTION!

"Once again the world stands on the brink of historic events, which always since the entrance of Hitler into the war have been indicated by the meetings between Fuehrer and Il Duce."
Meet In Germany.
 Presumably meeting on German soil, although even that was disclosed officially. Hitler and Mussolini were said in informal Nazi quarters to have studied moves already in "process of maturation."
 Their four previous meetings had heralded lightning blows for this reason, speculation Berlin tonight centered on question of whether a new offensive is about to be undertaken.

AMERICA'S FINEST CIGARETTE —

THEY NOW COST NO MORE than ordinary, popular-price brands!

In GEORGIA

When you can have, for the same money, Philip Morris' better taste — PLUS real protection for the nose and throat — why smoke anything else?
